CHICAGO FORGES AHEAD IN TRADE WITH FAR EAST

Shipments Booming Despite Tarif.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's exports to the orient, by large and small shippers, appear to be growing, and regardless of tarif barriers many a producer, battling the depression, has expanded his foreign market. Radios and refrigerators, motor trucks and novelty jewelry, typewriters and outboard motors, cosmetics and bathroom supplies are types of products moving from Chicagoland to the far east.

Weight is thrown upon these facts by the Association of Commerce in urging railroads to cut the running time of package freight to Pacific coast ports from seven days to six. This would ease the pressure of the Panama canal upon midwest foreign commerce because swift delivery, by reducing interest loss on valuable goods in transit, help to offset the advantage of the Atlantic seaboard in low all water rates via the canal.

Chicago Goods in Orient.

Just returned from the orient, S. S. Brill, foreign trade counselor, yesterday finished his report to the foreign credits division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men. His survey of Chicago goods he found being sold in the orient reflects the reports of foreign sales local exporters have been making here in recent months.

"The far eastern countries, I believe, are at present the most promising market for American goods," reports Mr. Brill, a veteran trade expert. "Few people know of the importance of Chicago and its environs in supplying foreign lands with products originating within 300 miles of Chicago.

"In practically all hotels and restaurants of importance in Japan, China, the Philippines, the Malayan states, the Dutch East Indies, etc., one finds the first item on the breakfast bill is cereal from the Chicago district. The ham and bacon also are mostly imported from this section.

French Cheese from Milwaukee.

"The cream cheese and even the Camembert, which is recommended by the waiter as 'genuine French,' originates in Milwaukee. One can quench his thirst with beer from Chicago or sodas with ice cream frozen in Chicago made freezers, and flavored with Chicago made extracts.

"Many of the kitchen utensils, such as baking tins and skillets, originate in the Chicago territory, and so do electric refrigerators or ice chests. Many of the polished floors in the far east are waxed with Chicago products. The new synthetic floorings are known in the orient, especially in China.

"In shops in far eastern countries you find trunks and luggage made in Racine in large department stores or luggage shops of prominence. Radios from Chicago are extensively used. Chicago made hardware, hand tools, locks, and other specialties are carried by far east dealers.

Use Electrical Goods.

"Electrical appliances of the better grades are finding oriental buyers, and if you go to a movie you may be sure that the projectors or photographic apparatus probably came from Chicago. If you want chewing gum you can get any brand in any department store.

"Well represented in the far east are gasoline motors and other machinery for small industries, lighting plants and dairy equipment, printing machinery, outboard motors, typewriters and multigraphing machines manufactured in the Chicago district.

"Chicago made cosmetics, toilet articles, toothpastes, and soaps are displayed everywhere one travels, including even hotel gift shops. In the barber shop you sit in a chair made in Chicago and your hair is cut with clippers made in Racine.

Beds from Chicago.

"Many hotels and even private homes are furnished with beds and bed springs made in the Chicago area, and you will also find folding beds and chairs and metal furniture from this district fairly well represented. Also well known brands of drugs and proprietary medicines made in Chicagoland are sold extensively in the east."

One interesting development noted by Mr. Brill concerns the cotton market. When the New Deal ordained the cotton plowup and restricted acreage plan, foreign countries growing cotton at once increased their acreage. Now Japan, which is a large consumer of American cotton, is opening negotiations with Brazil on a proposal for the importation of $3,500,000 of Brazilian cotton at lower prices than America charges.

NRA'S RED TAPE SLOW TO AID IN STOMACH CURE

7 Weeks' Delay on Lunch Time Plea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—What the senate committee investigating the NRA wants to know is whether Miss Ada Erler, employed by J. A. Ochs & Sons' "Bee Hive" store at New Ulm, Minn., got well or got worse during the seven weeks it took the NRA to decide whether to permit her employer to grant her an extra half hour for lunch because of stomach trouble.

Her physician prescribed rest after meals, and her employer, operating under the retail code, petitioned the NRA on Nov. 16, 1934, for permission to allow her an hour and a half instead of the code prescribed hour for lunch. He pinned the doctor's certificate to the petition.

Red Tape Is Followed.

Copies of this petition, together with the physician's report, were sent to all of the NRA advisory boards and to the National Retail Code authority, in order to obtain their recommendations.

The managing director of the National Retail Code authority, in due course, reported back to NRA as follows:

IN VIEW OF THE UNUSUAL AND OBVIOUSLY DESERVING NATURE OF THIS CASE, WHICH IS ATTESTED TO BY A PHYSICIAN, I RECOMMEND THAT THE PETITION BE APPROVED.

David M. Polak of the NRA division of research and planning reported:

THE APPROVAL OF THIS PETITION IS NOT CONTRARY TO THE POLICY OF NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT.

Gullie B. Goldin, assistant counsel of NRA's legal division, reported:

THE LEGAL DIVISION APPROVES SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING:

1. LINE 2 OF PROPOSED ORDER. ADD "NEW ULM, MINN."

2. LINES 5, 20, AND 24, CHANGE WORDS "APPLICANTS," "THEY," "PETITIONERS," ETC., TO SINGULAR.

Only Question of Hours.

Ernest L. Osborne of the NRA consumers' advisory board reported:

WE HAVE YOUR MEMORANDUM OF DEC. 5 UPON THE ABOVE SUBJECT AND SINCE THE QUESTION INVOLVED IS ONE OF HOURS AND NO SUBSTANTIAL CONSUMER INTERESTS APPEAR TO BE INVOLVED, WE MAKE NO COMMENTS THEREON AT THIS TIME.

W. L. Walger of NRA's industrial advisory board marked his copy of the order:

APPROVED.

A. S. Donaldson, acting deputy administrator, reported:

I AM OF THE OPINION THAT THE PETITION HAS SHOWN UNDUE AND UNUSUAL HARDSHIP AS DEFINED IN ARTICLE X., SECTION 6, AND WARANTS APPROVAL.

At Last It's Ordered.

Armed with these recommendations the final order was issued. After several whereases, outlining the facts in the case, the order continued:

WHEREAS, THE DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR HAS REPORTED AND IT APPEARS TO THE SATISFACTION OF THE NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY BOARD, THAT THE EXEMPTION HEREINAFTER GRANTED IS NECESSARY AND WILL TEND TO EFFECTUATE THE POLICIES OF TITLE I OF THE NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT:

NOW, THEREFORE, PURSUANT TO AUTHORITY VESTED IN IT, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT THE ABOVE NAMED APPLICANT BE, AND HEREBY IS EXEMPTED, AS OF THE DATE OF THIS ORDER, FROM SAID PROVISION OF SAID CODE TO THE EXTENT HEREINAFTER STATED:

THAT PETITIONER IS HEREBY PERMITTED TO EXTEND THE LUNCH HOUR OF MISS ADA ERLER FROM ONE HOUR TO ONE HOUR AND A HALF UNTIL SUCH TIME AS THE PHYSICAL DISABILITIES COMPLAINED OF HAVE BEEN ALLEVIATED. THIS EXEMPTION IS SUBJECT TO CANCELATION BY THE NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY BOARD, OR ITS AGENT, WITH OR WITHOUT HEARING.

This order was signed by Harry C. Carr, acting division administrator, and countersigned by A. S. Donaldson, acting deputy administrator, dated Jan. 4.

It took seven weeks.

Two Boys Drown as One Battles to Rescue Other

Portsmouth, O., March 17.—(AP)—Two boys drowned in a swollen creek today as one attempted to rescue the other after a rowboat sank. They were Seymour Fraley, 15, and Paul Morrison, 13. Morrison and Harold Fraley, 16, brother of Seymour, were rowing on Pine Creek when their boat sank. Seymour, on the shore, dived in to aid the two and as Harold swam to shore drowned with the struggling Morrison.

PLANNING THE MURDER

CRUISE PASSENGERS BRING LIQUOR BACK, GALLON PER PERSON

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The steamers Georgic and Britannic docked from West Indies cruises today, bringing back more than 1,000 passengers and more than 1,000 gallons of liquor.

The new duty-free allowance accounted for the liquor, each passenger being permitted to bring in one quart free of duty and up to $100 worth by the payment of a $2 a gallon tax.

Customs inspectors expressed wonderment at the amount of intoxicants, noting that several passengers brought in as much as five cases of Scotch whisky. The whisky cost the passengers $19 a case, plus the tax of $6 a case. This total is much lower than the same liquor would cost locally.

One passenger "imported" a case of benedictine for which in Colombia he had paid $27.50 and $5 internal revenue. The cost of the case in New York, inspectors remarked, would be about $75.

Under the new allowance it is possible to buy 100 gallons of rum in the West Indies for $1 a gallon and pay a tax of $200. The former duty and tax was $700.

2 LEAP; EACH HIT BY CAR THE OTHER ESCAPED; 1 KILLED

John Batuna, 60 years old, of Decatur, Mich., and John Hritz, 59 years old, were on their way to the latter's home at 2593 Washington street, Gary, last night.

They stopped in the middle of Broadway, between 25th and 26th streets, and were holding an animated discussion. Coming toward them were a northbound and a southbound street car.

Batuna glimpsed the northbound car and sprang aside into the path of the southbound car. At the same time Hritz saw the southbound car and stepped backward into the path of the northbound car.

Batuna was killed, Hritz suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries, and doctors at the Mercy hospital, Gary, said he probably would die.

SAFEGUARD VISIT OF MANCHUKUAN RULER TO JAPAN

TIENTSIN, China, March 17.—(AP)—Apparently to forestall any possible attempt to harm Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo during his journey to Japan early in April, Japanese authorities are taking extreme precautions to prevent undesirables from entering Manchukuo.

Hundreds of Chinese travelers attempting to cross the frontier have been turned back at passes of China's Great Wall during the last few days. All persons arriving at the frontier are subjected to the closest scrutiny by Japanese guards.

Commit Soul of 'De Lawd' to Green Pasture

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Trembling organ music, rich timbred spirituals, the faint scent of many floral wreaths and the mystic light of breeze blown tapers awed 7,500 mourners today at the funeral service for Richard Berry Harrison in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Bishop William T. Manning probably never before looked down from his pulpit on so mixed a throng as listened in deep silence to his solemn eulogy of the venerable colored actor who for five years had played the rôle of De Lawd in "The Green Pastures."

Every foot of space, even the area around the communion rail before the great white altar where guttering candles danced against a background of scarlet drapery, was filled with humble, sorrowing colored and white admirers of the old actor. They flowed into the chapels and even into the street.

Whites and Colored Mingle.

There were rich and poor of both races. Colored ushers, grave and dignified in frock coats, mingled with the customary laymen who act as ushers in the cathedral. Aristocratic white men and white women, richly attired—most of them well advanced in years,—sat beside shabby colored men and women out of Harlem.

As the throngs filed silently into the pews beneath the towering arches the silver organ pipes poured out a continuous flow of soft music. The thousands who had come down from Harlem sat staring at the deep shadows and the rich fittings high over their heads.

Then the honorary pallbearers, Laurence Harrison, son of De Lawd, and the cast from "The Green Pastures," walked to their appointed places.

The vibrant voice of Dean Milo H. Gates pronounced the sentences that opened the service.

Choir in Close Harmony.

Rich voices of the 32 members of the choir blended as the melodies echoed throughout the cathedral. In close harmony the colored singers wailed:

"O, de blin' man stood on the road and cried.
O, de blin' man stood on de road an' cried;
Cryin': 'O, Lordy, save me.'
O, de blin' man stood on de road an' cried."

And then "De Lawd's" particular favorite:

"I am a po' pilgrim of sorrow;
I'm tossed in dis wide worl' alone;
No hope have I for tomorrow,
I've started to make heav'n my home.

"My mother has reached dat pure glory;
My father's still walkin' in sin;
My brothers and sisters won't own me;
Because I am tryin' to get in."

At the foot of the aisle before the sanctuary rested the bronze coffin, covered with a blanket of red roses and white carnations, 1,657 blooms, one for each of the performances that De Lawd played in "The Green Pastures," the tribute from members of the cast.

"May He Have Peace."

"May he have blessing and peace and fullness of reward in those green pastures where he now is with Christ, the Good Shepherd, forever," intoned Bishop Manning from the high stone pulpit.

"His life and example reflect honor upon his race, and upon all of us alike, for the qualities of soul and character which he showed are the qualities which give dignity and greatness to human life everywhere. His experience of life was a truly remarkable one, reaching from the humble beginnings to a phase unique in the history of dramatic art.

"By his qualities of soul and character he helped us to see the great truth which Christ and his gospel teach us—that, whatever their race, or nation, or color, all men are brothers, sons of one Father and Creator who calls us to live as his children and as members of one great human family on all this earth."

SERVICES HERE TOMORROW.

The body of Richard Berry Harrison will be returned to his home here today from New York. Final rites for the revered colored actor will be held at St. Edmund's Episcopal church, 5831 Indiana avenue, tomorrow morning.

JUST THE SAME, IT SOUNDS LIKE A GOOD WAY TO SAVE TIME

Kansas City, Mo., March 17.—[Special.]—A well dressed young woman with a large package in her arms stepped up to the Union station telegraph desk here today.

"How much," she asked Lois Gibson, telegraph clerk, "will it cost me to send this package to Cleveland by wire?"

Miss Gibson tried to explain the mechanics of sending a telegram, but the woman didn't understand.

"It's very strange," she said. "I've sent money by wire lots of times, and I always thought you could send packages, too."

But it seems that you can't.

BERLIN, March 17.—The revival of a German conscription army was celebrated in Berlin with a gigantic display of military might today as the nation joined in memorial ceremonies for the war dead.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, who yesterday rocked Europe by denouncing the military clauses of the Versailles treaty, reviewed the parade which was unprecedented in post-war Germany. Included in the procession were goose-stepping infantrymen, companies of cavalry, a detachment of artillery, engineers, sailors, members of the militarized air corps, motorized units, a motorcycle corps of machine gunners, police with rifles, armed Schutz Staffel troops [picked guards] and regimental bands.

In the background on a terrace beside the old Hohenzollern palace stood former Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm in a field gray hussan's uniform with a death's head busby. Generals of the world war clustered around him.

Hitler wore a brown Storm Trooper's uniform. More than 500,000 wildly cheering Germans lined the streets to view the parade and pay homage to the fuehrer.

The war flag of Germany—the iron cross on a black white and red banner—floated from the kaiser's palace. It was flanked by two red Nazi flags.

On the reviewing platform with Hitler were Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and reichs minister of aviation; Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, and all the members of the cabinet.

Decorate Flags of War.

One of the features of the demonstration was the bestowing of world war "crosses of honor" on 81 regimental flags by Hitler and his associates. According to the Nazis, the black, white and red ribbons of the cross of honor were pinned to the his-

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 17.—Great Britain took the first step tonight to forge a ring of steel around Germany, if such drastic action proves necessary. The government decided that whether or not Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon makes his contemplated trip to Berlin to confer with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, shall go to Moscow and Warsaw to discuss collective agreement for European peace. Eden will act as assistant foreign secretary.

These conversations in the Russian and Polish capitals will result in Germany's isolation if her unilateral denunciation of military clauses in the Versailles treaty means, as many suspect, that she intends to play the lone wolf in European affairs.

Up to Hitler.

It was emphasized here that Britain is committed to work for collective security and to support the league of nations. The fact that Capt. Eden is going to Moscow and Warsaw as arranged is a strong indication Germany will be encircled with a ring of steel unless Hitler takes part in the agreements for collective security. The British government hopes to arrange security pacts with Russia and Poland in a lineup including France and Italy.

Members of the cabinet met today to discuss Hitler's denunciation of the Versailles treaty and the announcement of universal military conscription. A special meeting will be held tomorrow to decide whether it would be worth while to send Simon to Berlin. The foreign secretary's trip already was postponed once by Hitler's cold, said to have been caused by British criticism of Nazi rearmament.

It is believed Simon favors proceeding to Berlin as an effort to learn whether Germany wants "peace with honor," as the German dictator reiterates, or is preparing for aggressive action to regain lost territories.

Britain to Send Note.

Simon has prepared a draft of a note for presentation to the Berlin government by Sir Eric Phillips, the British ambassador. It will be considered at tomorrow's cabinet meeting. Although no details were disclosed, it is understood the note asks Hitler on what basis conversations can take place now that the reich has elected to fix its own armaments level in advance. France has suggested the postponement of Simon's visit to the German capital.

A statement of the British government policy will be delivered in the house of commons tomorrow and it is expected Simon will get in direct touch with Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France.

Consultations with France, which began last night, continued today in London and Paris. First Secretary Cambon of the French embassy had a talk with Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent undersecretary of state of the foreign office. Messages disclosing the preliminary views of the French government were received. The opinion of Premier Mussolini of Italy was solicited by the British ambassador in Rome.

Conference May Follow.

This preliminary exchange of views is expected to be followed by a conference between representatives of England, France, Italy, and Belgium as the signatories of the Versailles treaty to decide what to do.

There are two courses open. One would be to take economic measures against Germany. Nobody is anxious to do this and few consider such a step wise. The other course would be to proceed with schemes for collective security by agreements for mutual defense. The French and Russians are bound to clamor for this. The decision to send Eden to Moscow and Warsaw is a step in that direction.

PLAN JOINT PROTEST

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 17.—A "league of pacific peoples of Europe" against Germany was foreshadowed in a semi-official communique published here tonight following the latest consultations between Paris, London, and Rome over Adolf Hitler's denunciation of the Versailles treaty.

Whether the project for this "league of pacific peoples" -the old steel ring around Germany applied in earnest this time—represents definitly a fixed policy or not the note fails to make clear and there is reason to believe that the French have not made up their own minds.

says, is that France, Great Britain, and Italy now are in full agreement that a strongly worded common protest must be sent to Germany.

The advisability of convoking an early extraordinary session of the league of nations' council to deal with Germany's repudiation of the treaty engagement is being bedated in the three capitals. The French communique mentions an extraordinary council as something "which appears likely." If the council is convoked, the communique continues, very important decisions will be taken not only in the council itself but in private conversations. These decisions will have to do with organization and reenforcement of the "league of pacific peoples."

In this vague form the project of a European alliance against Germany appears chiefly as a trial balloon calculated to throw a scare into the Germany. Nevertheless, the communique speaks much more definitly about the necessity of going ahead at once with the signing of the Danubian and northeastern security pacts—of course without waiting for Germany's adherence.

The likelihood that the present informal Franco-Russian understanding will be converted into a full dress military treaty comparable to the prewar Franco-Russian alliance is foreshadowed in the announcement that the date for Foreign Minister Pierre Laval's long proposed trip to Moscow has been fixed. It is understood he will go to Russia about the middle of April.

Laval Talks with Briton.

The feverish activity at the French foreign office which broke out last night continued today. Laval first had another lengthy conversation with R. H. Campbell of the British embassy. In the afternoon, while his ministerial colleagues were discussing financial problems with the British ministers, he had a heart to heart talk with Paul Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister. The conversation, it is said, closed with a complete understanding.

Hymans will make a declaration to the Belgian parliament tomorrow regarding the German situation.

Britain, France, and Italy, it is understood, have agreed in principle on the protest to Germany.

Charges Nazis Prepare for War.

MOSCOW, March 18.—[Monday]—(AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today Germany is making preparations for war and urged a consultation of powers interested in the preservation of peace.

"The moment demands urgent decisions," Izvestia asserted. "Germany has made everything clear regarding her aims. Other powers should make clear their means of defense and protect the cause of peace for Europe and humanity."

Germany, the paper said, suffering a deep economic crisis, "is in a hurry. The determination with which she is ignoring diplomatic obligations is symptomatic of the fact that she is preparing for action.

"None can say whether the matter will concern Austria, Danzig, or Memel but there can be no doubt that Germany's latest move forecasts acts of political aggression. In this situation everything depends on whether the powers against whom this action is directed will speedily work out a system of mutual aid to be employed in the case of German aggression.

"If Germany should be made to understand that this system will be enforced, with her participation if she desires and without it if she refuses, then we are convinced she will realize that she is weaker than the other powers put together."

HITLER INSISTS GERMAN PEOPLE "WANT NO WAR"

LONDON, March 18 (Monday).—(AP)—Adolf Hitler plans to apply conscription not only to the army but to the navy and the new air force as well, he was quoted early today as saying in an interview with the London Daily Mail's correspondent at Munich, but he emphasized that "the German people want no war."

"The German people want to be peaceful and happy. It wants above all to be able to respect itself," Hitler was quoted as saying in an interview conducted while flying from Berlin to Munich.

"You have seen with your own eyes the enthusiasm the German people have displayed toward me," the Fuehrer said. "Had you asked a single man or woman of those huge crowds in Berlin whether they thought the step I took Saturday in restoring universal military service might lead to war, they would have stared at you in amazement.

"Self-respect is what I have given the German nation. They couldn't go on living under the humiliating depression of restrictions of the treaty of Versailles. They will never cease to be grateful to me as the man who has freed them from those restrictions."

"This great nation!" he exclaimed. "It doesn't deserve the humiliations through which it has passed. Its heart is filled with joy because it has been released from them. But believe me that joy implies no feeling of aggression toward any other power and no possible increase in the danger of war."

Ex-Kaiser Pleased German Military Power Restored

BERLIN, March 17.—(AP)—It was reliably reported today that former Kaiser Wilhelm has expressed himself as very glad that Germany's military power is to be restored. He declined, however, to make any direct comment.

NAB 700 GERMAN PASTORS DEFYING CHURCH LEADERS

Expect Arrests to Rise to Higher Total.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 17.—About 700 Confessional synod pastors were arrested in Berlin and throughout Germany during the last 24 hours to prevent them from reading the synod's proclamation which sharply criticizes the Nazi church régime. The anti-Nazi manifesto was issued a week ago.

It was believed the number of those arrested would be much higher when fuller reports came in from the provinces. More than 5,000 pastors are identified with the Confessional movement. Berlin opposition circles received additional reports of 190 arrests of ministers in Silesia and many more in Saxony. Twelve pastors were arrested at Magdeburg and five at Halle. In the small communities around Berlin and in the states arrested pastors were taken to the police headquarters of the nearest larger town. In consequence services were not conducted in many villages and citizens and farmers were much angered.

Niemoeller Is Taken.

Berlin leaders arrested include the Rev. Gerhard Jacobi, pastor of the large Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church, and the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, militant leader of the Confessional synod. A substitute in the Rev. Mr. Jacobi's pulpit had the congregation pledge loyalty to the Nazi state and then read the manifesto. The doors of the Rev. Mr. Niemoeller's church, in fashionable Dahlem suburb, were closed, but the congregation gathered outside and sang "A Firm Fortress Is Our God."

The majority of arrested pastors were released after interrogation by the police, but some still are held. Nevertheless, the proclamation was read in practically all churches where substitute pastors could be procured. The reading was followed by prayers for the arrested pastors and for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. Some substitute clergymen also were subsequently arrested.

Confined in Homes.

In many instances the clergy were placed under "house arrest," but were taken into police custody when they left their homes to attempt to reach their churches. Moving scenes occurred in the churches when the news of the arrests became known. For the first time in centuries St. Anne's church in Dahlem, suburb of Berlin, was without Sunday services.

As the outstanding church of the Confessional movement, St. Anne's was crowded long before service time. When the hour for the morning service came, a member of the brotherhood council rose and declared there could be no service because the police had arrested both pastors. One prominent member of the congregation arose and read the Lord's Prayer, and the meeting was dispersed.

Police claim the arrests were made because the manifesto asserted:

"Whoever replaces God by race and people undermines the state."

See Attacks on State.

The Nazi chiefs see in this sentence a direct attack on the state and thus great anxiety is felt for the fate of the Confessional church. Protestant leaders are appalled at the measures taken by Nazi Primate Ludwig Mueller.

One Nazi chieftain declared:

"We must create a unified church of 40,000,000 German Protestants. We have unified political parties. The church must now do the same or disappear."

The Protestant Confessional movement would like to escape the domination gained through the state subsidy paid out of taxes collected by the state. This would free the church of state control. But the Nazis are not willing to relinquish this control. Any effort to free the church of political influence will be branded as treason.

Include Catholics, Masons.

Nazi officials acted also against the Catholics and Masons. Secret police searched the Convent of the Good Shepherd, a large one in north Berlin, and arrested the mother superior and her assistant for reasons which were not announced. Catholics in Berlin were boiling with resentment.

It was learned the Nazis swooped down on the Masonic Grand Lodge of the Three Globes in the heart of Berlin recently and arrested the grand master, subsequently taking the grand master's wife into custody.

When lodge members met to consider what action to take the police raided the session and arrested members on charges of "holding a forbidden secret meeting." Police are in possession of the valuable lodge property, in whose cellars are 20,000 bottles of rare wines.

AUSTRIA INDICATES IT PLANS TO SET UP A NEW CONSCRIPT ARMY

VIENNA, March 17.—(AP)—Indications that Austria is following Germany in the direction of compulsory military service were plentiful today.

Newspapers dressed the details of a new law establishing military service as the first qualification of young men seeking places on the public pay roll, whether federal, provincial or municipal.

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg yesterday emphasized the necessity of building up a national defense, declaring that "pacifism, which softens and paralyzes the fighting spirit, must eventually lead to ruin."

The new Austrian military service law, promulgated last week, was careful to avoid open treaty repudiation. It specifically requires every candidate for public service who was born after June 30, 1917, to offer himself for military service.

The law already applies to practically every Austrian youth, for not only the railways, postoffice, social insurance institutions, and many of the hospitals but even pawnshops are government owned. Youths who are disqualified for public service are automatically disqualified for the biggest share of all available jobs.

HITLER REVIEWS ARMY AT RITES FOR WAR DEAD

torical flags because "Hitler restored their honor." Veterans of the world war stood at attention during this ceremony.

Before the parade Hitler attended a memorial observance at the state opera house. He sat in the old imperial box with Field Marshal von Mackensen, wearing a glittering Hussar uniform, and cabinet members and lesser leaders.

Ambassador William E. Dodd of the United States was the only representative of a major power among the diplomats present.

The British, French, Russian, Japanese and Turkish ambassadors, it was noticed, were absent.

Pays Tribute to Hitler.

Gen. von Blomberg, who will give the word when actual military conscription of German youth begins, bowed deep in humility before Hitler.

In an address the general characterized the fuehrer as the "architect whom God sent to build up a new Germany on the foundation stone laid by the army."

Extends Hand to Old Enemies.

"We want a peaceful future," Von Blomberg said. "We want reconciliation with our former enemies. We believe this can be effected if all enjoy the equal rights of security.

"We entered the world war with a shining shield. We have emerged with our honor unbesmirched. We have no hatred for our former enemies. We stretch out the hand of reconciliation to our former opponents.

"Need No Revenge."

"Our aim is a beautiful, great and exalted Germany, which will hold a place of honor among the large nations. We need no revenge. The fame we achieved in the last war is enough for centuries to come. A new war can merely mean a mutual tearing to pieces. We see in a world war a catastrophe which the world must at all cost be spared again.

"Europe is too small to be another battlefield. Its cultural possessions are too precious to be wantonly destroyed.

"Yesterday's decision [to conscript an army] created foundations for the reich's security. Our defensive force will again become what it was—a school for training the nation's youth in the spirit of national duty. Abroad it will mean equal rights and equal ability as the reich's guardian."

A surprising feature of the defense minister's address was his high tribute to Gen. Erich Ludendorff.

"In honoring the memory of Field Marshal von Hindenberg, we cannot forget the man who stood shoulder to shoulder with Hindenburg-Ludendorff," he said. "We bow our heads in reverence at the mention of his name. He was a war lord who, like Atlas, bore the world on his shoulders."

Assassin Scare at Munich.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, March 17.—An assassination scare marked Reichsfuehrer Hitler's arrival at Munich this afternoon from Berlin. Hitler had made triumphant progress from the airport to his hotel where he remained indoors while the Munich garrison was assembling for a parade.

Authorities halted all auto trafic in the neighborhood of the hotel for two hours. Hitler suddenly emerged from the hotel in advance of his retinue, walking briskly to cross the street from where he was to take the soldiers' salute.

Suddenly a taxicab roared up and halted just at the spot where the reichsfuehrer was preparing to step off the sidewalk. The door was flung open. The wildly cheering crowd was hushed.

Hitler's black uniformed guards rushed forward and slammed the doors of the car shut. Two squads leaped on each running board and ordered the driver to speed away. Hitler watched the incident without exhibiting any emotion. As the car drove away he crossed the street to review the parade while the crowd shouted, "Heil Hitler!"

POLISH PAPERS VIEW BIGGER NAZI ARMY AS THREAT TO PEACE

WARSAW, March 17.—(AP)—Several Polish newspapers viewed Germany's decision to increase her army today as a threat to world peace.

The Socialist organ declared Germany had suddenly become a great military power.

"All of Germany's neighbors," said one paper, "should base their safety not on pacific Utopias, but on their own force and sound alliances."

"I coughed terribly," says Mr. John Wright, Columbus, O. "The first few spoonfuls of Pertussin brought relief. My cough didn't last long after that."

WHEN you catch cold, thousands of tiny moisture glands in your throat clog. Your throat dries. Infected mucus irritates. Tickling starts—then you cough. Pertussin "unclogs" those glands. It helps the throat glands to pour out their natural moisture. Sticky phlegm loosens—Relief. Get a bottle and start to use it now!

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SEE ROOSEVELT READY TO PUSH DEFENSE WORK

Expect Policy of Caution on European Situation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will pursue a cautious policy of non-involvement in the inflammable situation in Europe but will aggressively push forward his program for strengthened national defense which already has brought prospective army and navy expenditures for the next fiscal year to an aggregate exceeding one billion dollars.

This is the general opinion among administration officials following White House conferences yesterday and today on the implications of Dictator Hitler's quadrupling of the German army in defiance of the treaty of Versailles.

Cabinet to Discuss Matter.

Whether the President will take cognizance of the action that has upset Europe and accelerated measures of preparedness for war by the European powers is a question that will be considered by Mr. Roosevelt and his cabinet this week. Inasmuch as Hitler's move is a violation not only of the Versailles treaty but of the separate treaty of peace between the United States and Germany, which incorporated the military provisions of the Versailles treaty, the President would have ground for filing a protest at Berlin, if for no other purpose than to keep the record clear.

Because of the fact, however, that the quarrel is strictly European and that the defense of the Versailles treaty does not devolve upon the United States it is deemed unlikely that the President would take any independent step, particularly in view of the widely held conviction that the restrictions on the rearmament of Germany were unjust terms imposed by victors upon the vanquished.

May Make Another Appeal.

A much more likely possibility is that the President will make another appeal for an international agreement on the limitation of armaments similar to the one he put forth in 1933.

The fear that Europe is on the brink of another war, which is shared by many officials, is only equaled by the strong conviction that the United States must exercise extreme care not to become involved in the conflict, if it should materialize. This is known to be the attitude unmistakably of the President and Secretary of State Hull. Inasmuch as America was drawn into the world war technically over a question of a violation of our neutral rights by Germany, great significance has been lent to the study which the state department for more than a year has been making of a revision of the doctrine of neutrality.

No Conclusion Reached.

This study revolves chiefly around the question of withdrawing national protection from Americans and American property on the high seas in a theater of war. The administration has stated that no conclusion has been reached on this matter.

Whether the psychological effect of the European war scare will be to stiffen support of the administration national defense program and possibly amplify it will soon become apparent in the disposition of pending legislation. A conference committee of the two houses is now adjusting differences in the army appropriation bill which provided for 379 million dollars as it passed the house and was raised to 400 millions by the senate. The house voted the President discretion to increase the enlisted strength of the army by one-third, but the senate made the increase mandatory. The bill also provides for additional coast and other defenses, aircraft, air bases, artillery and other arms.

Naval Bill Coming Up.

The house is about to take up the navy appropriation bill and other measures providing for greatly enlarging and strengthening our naval bases and other defenses, particularly in the Pacific area from Alaska to the Panama canal. The program would make the Hawaiian islands an impregnable western outpost, akin to Britain's Singapore or Gibraltar.

For the construction of new warships the President diverted 238 millions from the 3 billion dollar public works fund and recently allocated an additional 40 millions from the same source for the same purpose. On motion of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], the senate adopted an amendment to the 5 billion dollar work relief bill forbidding any such diversions from that fund for the army or navy.

Intent on Pacific Area.

In developing its national defense program the administration has been patently more intent upon the situation in the Pacific than in the Atlantic. There has been increasing friction between Japan and the United States, which, in the opinion of the administration, counsels measures of defense calculated to inspire respect.

It has been noted that the Japanese maintained an inoffensive attitude toward America so long as their navy was definitly inferior to ours. Since, however, they have attained virtual parity with the United States in up-to-date warcraft their demeanor has changed, according to administration officials, who, perhaps, however, fail to take sufficiently into account the provocative policy of the Hoover administration aimed at curbing Japanese absorption of Manchuria.

Whatever the reason, the Japanese press has been inflamed against America, and Japanese officials have not hesitated to foment suspicion of our motives.

Mr. Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, has stated to more than one American gathering that the refusal of the United States to fall in with the Japanese proposals at London recently for reduction of naval armament is construed by the Japanese to be proof of contemplated aggression on Japan.

The direction of the presidentially approved expenditures leaves no doubt that Hawaii is the spearhead of the new armament program. The secondary defense line of the Pacific coast is receiving the next closest attention. Both the army and the navy are aiming to make Hawaii an impregnable defense base for the United States. Its harbor facilities, air bases, equipment, housing and storage reserves are due for large increases.

PONDER ACTION TO CURB HITLER

2 WOMEN KILLED AND 2 CRITICALLY INJURED IN CRASH

One Dies and Eight Hurt in Another Collision.

Two women were fatally hurt, two other persons were injured so critically they may die, and three more incurred less serious injuries, in a collision yesterday between an automobile and a truck at 135th street and Crawford avenue in Crestwood.

The women killed were the wife and the mother of the driver of the automobile, Valentine Foch, 29 years old, 2166 Warner avenue. They were Mrs. Eva Foch, 30 years old, and Mrs. Rose Foch, 50, of the same address. The younger woman died on the way to St. Francis hospital in Blue Island, where all the injured were taken. Her mother-in-law died hours later.

In Critical Condition.

Those in a critical condition are Mrs. Lena Mandik, 1854 Fremont street, aunt of Foch, and Frank Heckler, 27, of 1929 Osgood street, his cousin. Mrs. Anna Hie, 1400 Waveland avenue, another cousin of Foch, was also injured. Foch and Walter Meier, 23 years old, of Frankfort, Ill., driver of the truck, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Meier was held for the inquest today.

Mrs. Mary Halliday, 45 years old, 6982 Owen avenue, was killed and her husband and seven other persons were injured early yesterday morning when two automobiles collided at Cicero and Peterson avenues. The husband, Edgar N. Halliday, 50 years old, a moving picture machine operator, is in a serious condition at Swedish Covenant hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Seven in Single Machine.

The others injured, none seriously, are Bernard Strenski, 19 years old, 2313 Lyndale avenue, driver of the other car, and his passengers, Leonard Janis, 20; John Cwik, 21; Miss Emma Schmidt, 16; her brother, Philip, 18; Joseph Kurdilo, 17, all of 1652 Erie street, and Miss Mary Zubik, 16, of 1757 Huron street. No one was held.

The deaths of the three women and four others increased the 1935 Cook county automobile fatality toll to 192. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 155 had been killed this year within the Chicago city limits and 2,924 injured. The other deaths yesterday:

Patrick Crosson, 62 years old, 512 South Oakley avenue. Fatally injured last night at Harrison street and Western avenue when he walked into the side of the automobile of Robert Selander, 43 years old, 10101 Lowe avenue.

Casimir Kaskievitch, 42 years old, 758 Harrison street. Died in St. Mary's hospital yesterday morning of injuries incurred on March 15 when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland and Haddon avenues. The driver, Harry Goelbeck, 54 years old, 930 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, a real estate dealer, was not held.

Oscar Brown, 50 years old, colored, 3800 South Wabash avenue. Died yesterday morning of a skull fracture incurred on Friday evening when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing the outer drive at 37th street. David Gifford, 28 years old, 6408 Yale avenue, the driver, has been instructed to attend the inquest today.

Unidentified colored man, about 35 years old. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile at Roosevelt road, just west of the Chicago river. He died at St. Luke's hospital. The driver of the car was Cyril Kamis, 23 years old, 5629 South Rockwell street.

Dairy Employes of Toledo Strike for Higher Pay

Toledo, O., March 18 [Monday].—(AP)—A tieup of Toledo's milk supply was threatened this morning when union dairy employés struck for higher pay at 1 a. m. E. J. Haumesser, business agent of the milk drivers and dairy employés' union here, said the union is asking for a basic rate of $32.50 a week for the drivers and $25 a week for inside men.

NAZIS CAMPAIGN TO CAPTURE FULL RULE OF DANZIG

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, March 17.—(AP)—The Nazi campaign to win absolute control over the free city of Danzig as it did the Saar basin was under way today.

Starting with a huge massmeeting followed by a torchlight parade, the campaign aims at conquering a two-thirds majority in the volkstag elections April 7. The results are being closely watched in Berlin.

Something like 1,300 meetings are scheduled for the next three weeks while Danzig civil servants are going to a "Nazi school" to learn how to be good National Socialists. Prominent party leaders are being imported from Berlin to "teach" public servants.

Recent dismissal of 300 railway workers of German origin by Polish officials has thrown a labor problem into the elections.

HITLER REARMING MAY AID PEACE, PROFESSOR SAYS

Germany's action in increasing its army as announced in the proclamation of Chancellor Hitler on Saturday is not necessarily a cause for alarm, according to Prof. Kenneth W. Colegrove of the political science department of Northwestern university. In fact, the professor declared yesterday, Saturday's development might be a step toward clearing up Europe's warlike situation.

"Hitler's action was justified," he said. "Germany, quite rightly, resented the violations of the Versailles treaty by other European powers. Her decision to increase her army was not a surprise to those who have been following the trend of European affairs and certainly not a surprise to England, France, and Italy."

SECRETARY ICKES JOINS NEW DEAL HEADS IN FLORIDA

Secretary Dern Next; Due in Miami Tomorrow.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Miami, Fla., March 17.—[Special.]—Another wave of New Deal administration celebrities rolled southward along Florida's east coast today, casting ashore personages at the Palm Beaches and the Miamis, where an interlude of sunbasking and probably golf and deep sea fishing will offer relief and relaxation from the tension and brain fagging efforts of Washington's official life.

Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, who arived in Florida territory today, probably ranks in importance in the current contingent of brain trust representatives. George Henry Dern, secretary of war, is also of the first magnitude file, but his arrival is set for the day after tomorrow. Mrs. Dern, however, has preceded him to Miami Beach and already the rounds of teas, receptions, and social gatherings at the Surf, Bath and other clubs have been launched.

Others in Southland.

Included in the "partying" legions of the New Dealers distinguished in the current arrivals are:

Robert Fechner, national director of the Federal Emergency Conservation administration.

Doland Lee, secretary to the secretary of the interior.

Francis S. Mason, savings and loan official of the Federal Home Loan bank board.

Arno B. Cammerer, director of the national park service in the department of the interior.

John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau at Washington.

Jesse Jones a Visitor.

These are in addition to the list presented recently in THE TRIBUNE that included Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the national emergency council; Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce; James A. Farley, postmaster general; Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture; William A. Julian, treasurer of the United States; J. A. Moffett, federal housing administrator; Charles J. Brand, executive director of the chemical fertilizer code, and James Roosevelt, son of the President, and Stephen P. Early, one of the President's secretaries.

President Roosevelt himself is scheduled to arrive at Miami next Sunday and start out upon a fishing trip aboard the Vincent Astor yacht, Nourmahal. The visit of the chief executive will climax the winter migration of official Washington to the gleaming sands and warm ocean waters off the Florida coast and the lavish luxury of both land and sea.

Ickes to Meet Seminoles.

A distinct dramatic interest is involved in the doings of Secretary Ickes Wednesday, for he is scheduled then to meet at a ceremonial with descendants of the once bolshevik Seminole Indians whose fiery leader, Chief Osceola, spurned offers of a "dole" from the federal government and preferred free and unrestricted life in the swamps and swales of the Everglades, with individual and tribal liberty, to pensions, doles, and bonuses.

Mr. Ickes will face a band of the remnants of the rebellious Seminoles at West Palm Beach at a ceremonial known as the sun dance, and local history says it will be the first formal meeting of Seminole leaders and government officials since a day in 1835 when the Indians walked out of a powwow conducted by Gov. Wiley Thompson and headed for the swamps.

The Seminoles still live in the Everglades and are self-organized along communistic or socialistic lines.

Plan Sailfishing Trip.

Mr. Ickes is accompanied by Mrs. Ickes and his son, Raymond Ickes. The party is to be entertained with a sailfishing adventure, perhaps some golf, a formal luncheon, bathing at the beaches, a trip to Lake Okeechobee, where federal public works projects for water control are in course of construction. He may also visit the camps of ex-service men employed in the construction of roads and bridges along the route of the Key West-Miami insular highway on Metacumbe keys and expects to be at Miami to see the sights on Thursday or Friday.

Secretary Dern, expected Tuesday, is to address the membership of the committee of one hundred at Miami Beach and, with Mrs. Dern, remain for a week or ten days at the winter home of Mrs. George A. Steiner of Salt Lake City and Miami Beach. Although all arrangements for the reception of Secretary Dern have been made there has been a hint that he may not fulfill the engagement as a result of publication of the announcement in THE TRIBUNE last week.

Cite "Official Activities."

In the case of the visits of almost all the New Deal contingent to Florida's sunshine and luxury area, some pretense has been made of "official activities." The appearance of Mr. Fechner of the Emergency Conservation administration last wek was an appearance in point. He addressed the committee of one hundred at Miami Beach. The committe is composed of representative industrialists of America who are marking time in Florida until things in the north get settled down. The membership is considered a cross section of the successful and wealthy hard-fisted, shrewd-minded, practical business men of the country; men who have succeeded through sheer hard work, battling, struggling, and methodical practices in the field of industry.

Before these men Mr. Fechner made a rather vague report upon his stewardship of the activities of the CCC with its 850,000 enlisted personnel. He prefaced his remarks by saying that "every one will agree that this has been one of the more useful activities in which our government is engaged."

TEETH DECAYED BY COARSE FOOD MORE THAN FINE

Tooth decay occurs when rats are fed a basal diet of coarse rice, but does not take place when the rice is finely ground, according to Dr. Theodor Rosebury, assistant professor of bacteriology in the Columbia university school of medicine. Dr. Rosebury read two papers on "caries" [tooth decay] before dentists of eight nations yesterday in the Stevens hotel at the concluding day's sessions of the International Association for Dental Research.

Dr. Rosebury, Dr. Maxwell Karshan of Columbia's school of dentistry, and Miss Genevieve Foley, experimented with rats because of the similarity of rat molars to human teeth.

They found that a generous proportion of orange juice in the diet had no apparent effect in preventing caries, and that alkaline foods, such as lima beans, aggravated the disease. The experiments showed, however, that corn oil, foods rich in phosphorus and calcium, and vitamin D [in cod liver oil or viosterol, or by violet ray treatments] retarded tooth decay.

Patriots Gather

Enlistment of Irish organizations in the United States in a campaign for a plebiscite in Ireland to determine if the Irish Free State is to continue in its present status or become a republic independent of England was urged by Dennis Malloy, former national president of the association, at a St. Patrick's day dinner of the Chicago Association for the Recognition of Ireland at the Auditorium hotel.

The meeting of the Irish-American patriots at the Auditorium and a dance given by the United Celtic-American societies at the Merry Garden ball room, were among the many events which brought to an end a week of festivities in honor of Ireland's patron saint.

Tribute to the work of St. Patrick and of the Irish people in propagating the Catholic religion was paid by the Rev. Ambrose Griffin, O. S. M., at the auditorium meeting which was held in conjunction with the St. Patrick's day celebration of the Society of Irish Music and Drama, members of which presented a program old Irish dances and songs.

Husband Kills Self in Hotel After a Quarrel with Wife

Paul Dincognito, 35 years old, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself in the bathroom adjoining his room at the Castle Apartment hotel, 4826 Winthrop avenue. His wife, Catherine, told police that he had left their home at 1340 Farwell avenue three days before, after a quarrel with her.

CATHOLIC ACTION CAMPAIGN GETS UNDER WAY HERE

Mobilization Meeting Is Attended by 2,000.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than 2,000 Knights of Columbus representatives of the various churches of the Catholic archdiocese inaugurated a campaign for Catholic action yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, was chairman of the meeting, and Attorney Francis P. Matthews of Omaha, deputy supreme knight, delivered the address launching the movement.

In an introductory speech Mr. Kelly outlined the purpose of the movement which is expected to enlist all Catholic laymen of the diocese. He stated that each layman will be asked to take definit part in the church's religious, educational, and humanitarian work, particularly as related to activities of the Knights of Columbus.

Kelly Announces Threefold Plan.

As chairman of the greater Chicago area of the mobilization program, Mr. Kelly enunciated the following threefold principle underlying the contemplated work:

1. To prove faith, live it.
2. To know humanity, serve it.
3. To merit citizenship, act it.

Catholic action, as involved in the mobilization campaign, was explained as action carried out on a comprehensive scale. It recalls the $44,000,000 which was expended by Knights of Columbus in war and post-war work, as well as establishment of large endowment funds for scholarships and general Catholic educational purposes. Educational programs for ex-service men are also maintained by the order.

Stress Relation to Recovery.

Another meaning of the mobilization is the recognition of the relationship of religion to economic recovery, it was explained.

Mr. Matthews not only praised the humanitarian work of the Knights of Columbus but also eulogized the founder of the organization, the Rev. John M. McGivney, pastor of St. Mary's church, New Haven, Conn. The order was chartered in 1882.

Fifty Thousand in Mobilization.

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—The mobilization for Catholic action was formally launched today by the Knights of Columbus in every state and every Canadian province. More than 50,000 Catholic laymen initiated the membership and education campaign, which will continue for two weeks. The drive was given a simultaneous start by a coast to coast "radio rally" broadcast from New York over the NBC network.

SEVERAL INJURED AS DUBLIN POLICE CLUB HECKLERS AT PARADE

DUBLIN, March 17.—(AP)—Several persons were injured today in a near riot growing out of the annual St. Patrick's day military parade when leaflets attacking the Irish president, Eamonn de Valera, were distributed.

Black flags were set to waving just as the advance guard of the parade reached the saluting base on the college green. Republican youths gathered behind Minister of Justice Patrick Ruttledge, who was with the reviewers, and booed and hissed. Police made several baton charges in which the injuries occurred. The troops marched steadily past the minister during the incident.

The leaflets also branded the army "England's ally," and called for recruits for the Irish republican army.

Commandant E. J. Cronin, anti-government leader, was injured on the head when he was pelted with a hail of eggs, stones, bottles, and other missils in a riot at Killmallok, County Limerick. He suffered a deep gash in the cheek, but he kept his place at the head of a Blue Shirt procession.

Cork police clapped 20 persons into jail for painting large signs in whitewash, saying, "England is Ireland's only enemy," and "Don't fight for the British empire," along the route where troops were parading. The offenders were released later.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Martin Streckley, 54 years old, 3433 South Irving avenue, committed suicide by inhaling gas in his home last night.

YALE STUDENTS TO FACE JUDGE FOR THEATER ROW

New Haven, Conn., March 17.—(AP)—At liberty under small bonds, five Yale students, arrested when nearly 200 undergraduates stormed the Shubert theater to gain attention of Ziegfield Follies beauties, tonight were scheduled for a city court appearance here tomorrow to answer several charges.

Those arrested during the mêlée last night gave their names as Walter Butler Squire, 21; Henry Irwin, 18; Sherman Mitchell, 20; Jonathan Victor, 20, and John Congdon, 19, but they failed to tell where they were from other than to give campus addresses.

Within a short time after confinement at police headquarters, the quintet was out on bail. All except Congdon were booked only on charges of general breach of the peace and trespassing. In his case resisting and villifying an officer were added.

It required the efforts of 25 patrolmen to disperse the hooting student assemblage which milled about in an alleyway between the Taft hotel and the theater.

TEN BOMBING PLANES HALT IN KANSAS CITY ON FLIGHT TO COAST

Kansas City, Mo., March 17.—(AP)—A squadron of 10 United States army bombing planes en route from Dayton, O., to the west coast arrived here late today for an overnight stop.

Capt. Harold Smith, commander of the squadron, said the flight would be resumed at 11 a. m. tomorrow when the bombers will go to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., in a formation maneuver.

Two planes left behind at Dayton are expected to join the squadron tomorrow, probably at El Paso, Tex., Capt. Smith said. The planes are part of the 31st bombardment squadron stationed at Hamilton field, San Rafael, Cal. They have been in the east preparing for a flight to Panama, which was postponed.

Capt. Smith said the cross-country flight was part of the army training program for the squadron.

OHIO'S GOVERNOR IS FACING THREAT OF IMPEACHMENT

Grand Jury Relief Inquiry May Be Ordered.

Columbus, O., March 17.—(AP)—A threat of impeachment hung over Ohio's Democratic governor, Martin L. Davey, tonight.

W. A. WALLS.

His voice in administration of Ohio relief silenced by a presidential decree, the tree surgeon who mounted the gubernatorial chair only nine weeks ago faced a fight for his job.

Republican Attorney General John W. Bricker stood ready to take before a grand jury information Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins asserted was "incontrovertible evidence" that the governor's campaign committee engaged in a "shakedown" of men and business firms who sold goods to the Ohio relief administration.

Davey "Out of Town."

The governor was reported by associates to be "out of town," as Hopkins' personal representative, Charles C. Stillman, arrived from Washington to carry out President Roosevelt's order that Hopkins "assume entire control" of Ohio relief.

Impeachment proceedings probably will depend on the outcome of the contemplated grand jury inquiry. The 52 year old governor was elected last November on a platform pledging economy in state government and a wholesale shakeup of the state relief administration.

The man he selected as state relief director, William A. Walls, robust school superintendent of his home town of Kent, was clipped of authority by Hopkins' action in detailing Stillman to administer Ohio's $10,000,000 a month relief bill. The state has approximately 1,200,000 of its 6,000,000 citizens on relief.

Sounds Impeachment Cry.

Senator Robert A. Pollock [Rep., Canton] sounded the impeachment cry shortly after he read Hopkins' charges that Davey's campaign committee solicited money from organizations selling to the relief administration "to help pay off the deficit of your campaign." Hopkins asserted, in a letter to the governor, that the federal government had obtained "signed and sworn confessions of the men who solicited the funds."

"There should be a sweeping investigation of Hopkins' charges," Senator Pollock said, "and if the charges are supported an impeachment should be started in the house."

Proof Coming, Hopkins Says.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins today followed his charges of outright corruption in the Ohio relief administration by forwarding affidavits which he declared would prove what he said—regardless of Gov. Davey's denials.

Before taking over the administration of relief in Ohio, Hopkins, the federal relief administrator, said he possessed "incontrovertible evidence" that firms doing business with the state relief administration had been "shaken down" to help make up Davey's campaign deficit.

The governor's reply was a dare to come to Ohio and face prosecution for "criminal libel" as well as a comment which said it seemed Hopkins had completely "lost his head."

Charles C. Stillman, whom Hopkins named as acting administrator of federal relief activities in Ohio, took charge of the relief setup there today.

KIDNAP VICTIM FREED.

Omaha, Neb., March 17.—(AP)—Gene Mullin, 27, of Mitchell, S. D., abducted last night by two garage robbers, was freed unharmed near Sioux City, Ia., today. Mullin told police the two forced him into a car after looting the garage till.

FIGHTS BILL TO KILL ALL UTILITY HOLDING FIRMS

Liberty League Sees Peril to Investors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—The American Liberty league today assailed the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, which proposes the ultimate abolition of the public utility holding companies, as "a most disturbing threat to recovery."

The league pointed out that enactment of the bill by forcing liquidation of holding companies within five years would result in a "shocking loss" to investors of more than two billion dollars in holding company securities. The bill would further imperil investments, totaling 10 billion dollars, in securities of public utility operating companies, according to the league.

In Sympathy With President.

"With entire sympathy for the desire of the President to abolish 'evil features of holding companies,' it is submitted that this bill, if passed as presently drawn, would constitute unwise and destructive legislation," the league said.

"Also it would result ultimately in government operation of utilities. The congressional committees in charge should modify its provisions so as to protect investors from an unwaranted raid upon the value of their securities and so as not to discourage the country generally in its efforts toward further recovery.

"Proper regulation within constitutional limits is a theory which would evoke general agreement. Wanton destruction of these instrumentalities of modern business will serve no good purpose and should be militantly opposed."

Imperil Billion of Securities.

The league declared that the bill also will imperil billions in securities of holding companies not in the utility field, so that capital will be difficult to obtain.

The bill, it was said, would force utilities to secure government aid or else curtail services to consumers. It would also leave utilities at the mercy of government competition in federal, state, and municipal agencies engaged in production and distribution of electricity, who are exempted from provisions of the bill.

The league characterized the bill as "typifying in part at least misguided zeal for practices already outlawed." The swing toward nationalization would bring upon taxpayers the cost of an extensive addition to federal bureocracy, it added.

"Industry, to survive in private hands, must be free and unhampered as to management, subject, of course, to a reasonable degree of supervision."

The league is a nonpartisan group recently created to combat radicalism and excesses in federal, state, and municipal governments. Its membership includes Al Smith and John W. Davis.

Will Visit Mother

Harry R. Pow, 50 years old, 685½ Wrightwood avenue, building manager, and his brother, George L. Pow, 46 years old, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, an official of the Canadian Pacific railroad, met in the Union depot last night for the first time in twenty-five years. After they exchanged greetings, Harry explained that business frustrated previous efforts to meet. The brothers are to leave tomorrow for Victoria, Ont., to visit their mother, Mrs. Caroline, Pow, 75 years old, and to attend a family reunion.

Forest Park Family Periled by $2,000 Oil Furnace Fire

A fire, apparently started by an overheated oil furnace, broke out yesterday in a two story store and flat building at 7217 West Roosevelt road, Forest Park, and caused damage estimated at $2,000 before it was extinguished by firemen under Chief John Pries. Walter Schwass, his wife, his son and daughter-in-law, were driven by smoke from Schwass' flat on the second floor in the building. The first floor was unoccupied.

ROBBERS STEAL HERSE AND BODY AND TAKE A RIDE

The theft of a herse, containing the body of a woman, was a mystery which confronted the Marquette police for some two hours last night.

Stanley Szrack, 1465 West Chicago avenue, an employe of the Jacob B. Suerth undertaking parlors, had driven the herse to 2429 50th avenue, Cicero, where he got the body of Mrs. Rose Grub. He drove back to the undertaking establishment and went inside to get another employe to help him carry the body.

When the two came outside the herse had disappeared. Police were notified, and two hours later the squad commanded by Sergt. Arthur Madzinski found the abandoned vehicle in an alley behind 2713 West 24th street. The body was still inside.

Indications were that the thief or thieves had raised the lid of the coffin, discovered that they had stolen a body, and fled.

STATLER HEIRESS, 4, ROMPS UNAWARE HER NEW WEALTH

Tucson, Ariz., March 17.—(AP)—Joan Statler, 4, heiress to the Statler hotel fortune, romps and attends kindergarten here unaware that another death in the family has made her a "million dollar" baby.

The inheritance of the child, granddaughter of the late E. M. Statler, hotel magnate, was increased to $1,275,000 by the death of her aunt, Elva Statler Davidson, at Pinehurst, N. C., early this month.

Joan received $900,000 from the Statler estate last Jan. 2.

The little girl was born in New York and came to Arizona when eight months old. Her father, Milton H. Statler, had acquired the Los Encinos ranch, part of an old Spanish land grant. After Statler was killed in an automobile accident in 1933, Mrs. Statler disposed of the ranch and moved to Tucson.

ROOSEVELTS WED 30 YEARS; PICNIC CELEBRATES DAY

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—A picnic and a quiet Sunday night supper made the thirtieth anniversary of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt today a typical family holiday.

Both heard good news early in the morning when they were told that Louis Howe, the President's secretary, was better.

Then Mrs. Roosevelt, her daughter, Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, and her son-in-law, John Boettiger, went for a morning canter on the family horses, along a Potomac-viewing bridle path.

They returned to pack the whole family off for a picnic, destination unannounced, into a brisk and bracing March combination of sun, wind, and cloud.

Just after dusk, the President's uncle and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Delano and Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes, came in for the traditional Sunday night scrambled eggs supper around the silver chafing dish that was a wedding gift.

PRINCE TO SHIFT FOR HIMSELF, IS BARBARA'S CLAIM

Won't Settle a Penny on Alexis Mdivani.

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—Barbara Hutton Mdivani, $42,000,000 American princess, insisted today that when she gets her divorce from her Georgian Prince Alexis Mdivani she will not have to settle a single penny upon him—he is going to have to shift for himself.

"This has been mutually agreed upon," said the princess with a determined air. "Besides, he has property himself in Spain and other places in Europe, and oil interests in the United States. He will continue to fill in a position in the Georgian legation in Paris."

Princess Barbara denied reports that she had ever granted Alexis a separate allowance during her less than two years of married life. She announced last night that she had instructed her lawyer in New York to institute Reno divorce proceedings.

The Woolworth heiress seemed composed today at her hotel suite with her "kid cousin," Jimmy Donahue, who joined her here Friday night.

Sails This Week.

Explaining why she had said only last Thursday that her married life was "perfectly happy" and that there were no plans whatever for a separation, she declared:

"I was determined to say nothing about it at all costs, but I changed my mind Saturday. I am going straight to Reno as soon as I arrive in New York, about March 28, to get this thing over with," said the princess. "I am sailing from England on the Bremen March 23."

Pressed for the reason she was seeking a divorce, she said:

"Well, we just decided we didn't get along. We discussed divorce for the first time two weeks ago in Egypt."

She said ground for the divorce was "incompatability, I understand."

She came to London alone on Wednesday, leaving Donahue in Paris with the prince. Donahue added, "The prince motored to Barcelona with his sister, Mme. Jose Maria Sert [wife of the artist], leaving Paris Friday, and I came on here to be with Bobby."

ALEX FARES WELL.

Although Barbara Hutton may divorce herself and her Woolworth millions from Prince Alexis Mdivani, friends of the family in New York said that the prince should come off fairly well on the financial side.

At the time of the marriage Franklyn Laws Hutton, father of the bride, was understood to have given $1,000,000 to the prince and an income of $50,000 a year. It is the allowance, apparently, which Barbara denies having made.

A parental gift to the bridal couple also included such items as a yacht, while the bride presented her husband with a string of polo ponies and a set of pearl shirt studs.

Three Wed Americans.

There are three Mdivani brothers—Alexis, David, and Serge—all of whom have had American wives.

Prince Alexis first married Louise Astor Van Alen, great-granddaughter of the late Mrs. William Astor, who ruled America's social circles. Their engagement was formally announced in 1931, they were married, and a year later the prince steamed into New York vainly trying to maintain an incognito—he and his wife had been divorced in Holland two weeks previously.

Prince David was divorced by Mae Murray, former screen star. Prince Serge was married to, and divorced by, Pola Negri, foreign born screen actress, and Mary McCormic, the opera singer.

Mae Murray, commenting in Chicago yesterday as a member of the "Ex-Princess club," took occasion to say in connection with Princess Barbara's statement: "Marry Americans, girls."

Arrest Ex-Store Manager on July Fraud Warant

Policemen John Ogorek and Albert Rupp arrested Alfred Schimmel, 35 years old, 3402 North Ashland avenue, yesterday in his home on a warant issued last July charging him with embezzlement of $960 from a Father and Son shoe store at 2763 Milwaukee avenue, of which he was manager.

DARROW TO TELL SENATE HOW HE FEELS ABOUT NRA

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow today stepped off an early Chicago train here and told the lone reporter to greet him that he hadn't changed his mind about "NRA and the Blue Eagle." He came here to give his views on the future of the recovery organization to the senate finance committee.

"What are you going to tell the committee tomorrow?" he was asked.

"I'll merely answer questions," he replied. "But I don't know what they will ask me."

"Have you changed any of your views on NRA since you submitted the two reports of the review board?" he was asked. These said the NRA codes were strangling the little business man.

Shaking his head he countered with: "Does any one ever change his views? "No, I have not changed my views toward NRA."

HOUSE EXPECTED TO PASS BONUS BILL THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—While the house promises to run roughshod over the widely known wishes of President Roosevelt this week and pass a bill to cash the so-called veterans' bonus, administration adherents in the senate are expected to turn in another and perhaps final victory for the White House on the 4 billion 880 million dollar works relief resolution.

Having met successfully last week what they regarded as the greatest obstacle to passage of an acceptable relief measure, the President's senate followers will encounter, probably tomorrow, a "conservative" movement to reduce the huge appropriation.

One of the most encouraging signs for progress in the senate this week is the indication that Senator Huey Long may be away from the capital for several days. His speeches have consumed a lion's share of the time spent in consideration of the relief resolution.

FIND 7 IN FRENCH PLANE IN AFRICAN JUNGLE VILLAGE

Repair Radio to Report Own Location.

PARIS, March 17.—(AP)—An airplane bearing a high French colonial official, his wife and five army officers, missing for two days in the African jungle, was reported today to have landed safely in an isolated spot in the heart of the steaming Congo.

Feeble radio signals bore the news the plane was down near Mimongo Gabon, 375 miles off its course, after it had lost its way in fog with Gov. Gen. Edouard Renard of French Equatorial Africa and his wife as passengers.

An airplane rescue expedition was immediately organized. The party had food in the plane, but it was believed to be lost in the desert or in a jungle clearing. A Belgian air liner will leave Pointe Noire tomorrow in an attempt to find the castaways.

The plane's radio, which failed before the landing, reported its position 54 hours after the last message yesterday told of encountering storm and fog. The Fort Lamy radio station picked up the messages.

The plane left Brazzaville, middle Congo, at 8 a. m. last Friday with its seven passengers and had not been heard from until today. Six airplanes swept back and forth over the jungles yesterday in search for it.

Today's message relayed from the plane said the ship's radio had to be repaired before a landing could be reported.

Mme. Renard, wife of the governor general, was the widow of Michael Winburn, wealthy American soap manufacturer and philanthropist. She was a leader of Paris society.

The five others in the plane were all French army officers, Maj. Bonnibue, chief of the governor general's military staf; Capt. Golard, commander of the French Equatorial Africa aviation unit, piloting the plane; Adjutant Ditte, Radio Operator Guitard, and Mechanic Sonnit.

Boy Detective Avenges Sister

Sam Batt, 1012 West Roosevelt road, 14 years old, proved his ability as a detective yesterday and caused police to arrest Gilson Bass, 35 years old, 5034 Homer street, on larceny charges.

Last Wednesday Sam's sister, Estella, 18 years old, and a girl friend, Dorothy La Kan, 20 years old, of Milwaukee, were left stranded in Dayton, O., when the driver of the car in which they were returning from Miami, Fla., on an expense sharing basis drove off with their belongings.

With funds wired by Miss Batt's parents the girls arrived in Chicago Friday and told of their experience. Brother Sam made note of the license number of the car in which his sister had been driving. Yesterday in front of 31 East Roosevelt road the boy saw a car with the bearing plates, Indiana 691-952, telephoned his home to verify the numbers, and then notified police.

Locked up the detective bureau, Bass admitted that he had deserted the girls in Dayton and sold their baggage.

HIT-RUN CRASH BY PEDESTRIAN BRINGS ARREST

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—(AP)—Police Sergeant James Ballinger reported Los Angeles' first hit-and-run pedestrian today.

Leaving a safety zone, Nathan Reznick, 14, dashed into the front of a motor car, broke the right front headlight, and crashed to the pavement.

The boy, slightly cut and bruised, jumped up and ran. He was overtaken by the car owner, Mendel Glasser, in a foot race of a block.

"Heck, I though I'd busted up the car, and I didn't have any money to pay for it," Nathan explained. "But I guess I can pay for the headlight."

This promise satisfied Glasser, and the boy was freed.

BOY'S DETECTIVE WORK AVENGES SISTER'S LOSS

ST. LOUIS SISTER OF SACRED HEART PRAISED BY POPE

VATICAN CITY, March 17.—(AP)—In the presence of Pope Pius a decree proclaiming the heroism and virtues of Sister Philippine Duchesne of the Sacred Heart sisterhood, who died in St. Louis, Mo., in 1860, was read today.

This was one of the steps in a process leading to her beatification.

Many American mother superiors of the order were present, as well as Cardinal Pacelli, protector of the order. The pope said the life of Sister Duchesne was one of true martyrdom, corresponding to her desire to spend her existence in the missionary apostolate. He gave the sisterhood his special blessings.

10,000 AT AIR CIRCUS WATCH STUNT FLYER CRASH TO HIS DEATH

Montgomery, Ala., March 17.—[Special.]—While 10,000 spectators looked on, Clifton Tribble, 32, Owensboro, Ky., stunt flyer, was killed here today when his plane crashed in front of the grand stand at the municipal airport.

Tribble attempted to "bail out" a few seconds before his ship struck the ground, but his parachuate became fouled in the ship's rudder.

Just before he crashed Tribble had thrilled spectators at the air circus with a daring "outside loop," and had leveled off again at approximately 5,000 feet. Then he turned the nose of his plane downward in a power dive. Flyers said his controls evidently jammed.

WIND CLEARS AIR AND CITY SEES MICHIGAN SHORE

Extraordinarily clear weather yesterday, after a winter of cloudy skies, brought the Michigan shore line, sixty miles across the lake, into view from Tribune Tower and other tall buildings along Michigan avenue.

A strong east wind cleared the sky, and in the crisp atmosphere, Gary, Michigan City, and other towns at the southeast end of the lake, more than thirty miles away, were easily discernible. The generating plant of the Northern Indiana Public Service company, Michigan City's largest building, and the ski slide at Ogden dunes, were plainly outlined.

Today's forecast is for warmer weather, with the wind shifting to the southeast, and with increasing cloudiness. The brisk temperature yesterday crowded the streets with motorists, and brought out many equestrians.

WILLIAM HENRY FIELD.

With the tragic death of William Henry Field at Rutland, Vt., his birthplace, was closed a brilliant career in American newspaper management and editorship which had placed Mr. Field in the first rank of newspaper men of this generation.

Ten years of this achievement were spent in Chicago as second vice president and business manager of THE TRIBUNE, culminating with the heavy responsibilities of two years as wartime editor. In 1919 Mr. Field returned to the east to be general eastern representative of THE TRIBUNE and assist as general manager and second vice president in the founding of the New York News, to the success of which his exceptional abilities contributed. For reasons of health Mr. Field withdrew from his TRIBUNE activities in 1922, retiring to Rutland, where in 1927 he interested himself in the direction of the Rutland Herald, which he owned. With the death of his wife and the persistent deterioration of his health Mr. Field's activities were more and more restricted, and it was undoubtedly a conviction that his life could no longer be useful to his family or to his country that induced him, with a Roman courage, to end it.

Mr. Field's was a career of high devotion to the most honorable responsibilities of his calling and the highest principles of journalism.

SPENDING THE PEOPLE'S MONEY.

With congress appropriating the people's money by billions and creating a more and more complicated and extensive system of spending agencies, there is greater need than ever in the country's history for an adequate system of government cost accounting. It does not now exist. As the National Association of Manufacturers has pointed out, "no member of congress, no official of the government, no accounting office can today tell the public the actual cost of its operations. No department, no executive establishment or agency, could, even if it were willing to do so, report with accuracy the cost of its own operations, for many of its charges are paid out of appropriations of other interrelated public agencies and no complete picture would be possible until all branches of the government are required to keep accounts under a program that would reveal their costs exactly as they do those of private business organizations."

In short, while the present régime is obtaining or demanding ever widening powers of supervision in private enterprise, there is now no adequate means to give the public accurate knowledge of how the vast sums of money on innumerable public projects and services are being disposed of. Such a situation is of course the wide open door to waste and graft on a scale never possible in the past.

We think this situation calls imperatively for correction. The people have a right to know where the heavy exactions made upon them are going. Burocracy will oppose any efficient system of supervision over its own procedure. The public should and we believe will demand it. The manufacturers' association offers a measure for its establishment, the Clark-Shannon bill, No. 1 in the senate and No. 200 in the house. It authorizes the controler general to prescribe the forms of cost keeping and reporting, defines the items of cost to which it refers and requires every federal agency to prepare and keep a report of its costs in conformity with the elements defined and the procedure described, with annual reports for the fiscal year, available for inspection.

The bill is in accordance with the Democratic party pledge of "the removal of government from all fields of private enterprise except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest." It prohibits expenditures to sustain or operate any federal agency producing goods or services which may be procured from private enterprise at less cost, unless such federal agency submits an estimate or bid in competition with private bidders and includes in its estimate every reasonable item of cost customarily incurred by the private bidder."

As the President has declared he was for the platform 100 per cent, we ought to be justified in assuming that he and the Democratic organization of congress wil not object to this feature of the bill, and as for the provisions to make essential information of government spending available to congress and the people, the need is so plain that they should not fail to have his emphatic approval and support as essential to responsible government.

JAPAN AND AIR TRANSPORT PROGRESS.

Military susceptibility, which seems more acute as well as more influential in Japan than in any other country, protests the plans of American aviation enterprise for establishing air lines over the Pacific. The Japanese press is making a great to-do about it and an anonymous authority is quoted as alleging that "this project can be regarded as military preparations in the guise of civilian enterprise." Color is given this charge by the fact that the American navy department has given permits for the experimental planes to land on the three islands under its administration, Wake, Midway, and Guam.

Of course the American public knows these charges are unfounded, that in fact the plans for air lines over the Pacific are only the natural expansion of our commercial aviation, which aspires to extend its service as widely as possible. It already has regular lines to Central and South America and it is expected will soon have lines to Europe. There has been no objection to this development from these countries, for its meaning is understood. Only Japan has conjured up the military bugaboo.

Every one realizes that aviation development has military potentialities everywhere. The only way to eliminate them is to eliminate aviation, or at least to place such restrictions upon it as would cripple its natural progress and deprive international commerce and communication of the great facilities possible through this form of rapid transport. That is a sacrifice we and other nations interested in aviation would not consent to make. All the nations of Europe, which have as much reason to be sensitive to the military possibilities of aviation as Japan, are now connected by regular commercial airways. We can account for the Japanese protest only as another example of a disposition to find occasion for hostility to America in everything we do. There is not the slightest inclination in the government or people of the United States to pick a quarrel with Japan, but the distrust and unreasonable interpretations of normal American activities which the Japanese press and Japanese leaders indulge in are a deplorable factor in the relations of the two peoples, making friendly and mutually beneficial relations very difficult.

There is no such conflict between the major interests of Japan and the United States as would justify war. There is no inclination in the American government or nation toward war with Japan or any other country. On the contrary, there is on our side a full realization that war between Japan and the United States would be inexcusable folly. Yet certainly the Japanese press and government are cultivating toward us a hostility which is gravely undermining the prospects of friendly relations and preparing the way for a collision sooner or later which can and should be avoided in the interest of both peoples and of the world.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS——.

The quintuplet question which has been the foremost political issue in Ontario of recent months appears to have been settled for the present, at least. The Liberals have carried the day. The Conservatives are all wet.

It is never easy to understand the political situation in a foreign land, but a careful reading of the dispatches suggests where the line of political cleavage was drawn. The question to be decided was the apportionment of the unearned increment. M. and Mme. Dionne have persisted in the notion that none of the increment was unearned, but this view has had little support among the politicians.

The Liberals were determined to share the wealth. Their bill cuts the whole province in, and King George for good measure. The Conservatives, on the other hand, seem to have felt that if every one gets a percentage the slices will be too thin to do much good. A division into a few healthy chunks is the Conservative idea.

The Liberal program of redistributing the quintuplets has swept the province. In effect, it makes every one in Ontario, whether married or single, the partial parent of a set of quintuplets, with the movie and sideshow rights thereunto appertaining. Probably the quintuplets will get a share of themselves, just as if they were their own parents, thus removing all suspicion of unfairness to the Dionne family. This happy solution of the problem would almost certainly have been adopted in any event, but when some one was inspired to name King George as the reorganization manager, as it were, the Conservatives were routed.

Needless to say, Ontario is peculiarly favored of fortune. Ontario's politicians have what might be termed an issue which every one can understand without having studied economics, history or international monetary problems. No matter what the politicians may do, no more than five persons will suffer. That is the kind of issue we need in this country.

Editorial of the Day

JUSTICE HOLMES' WILL.

[Lincoln, Neb., Star.]

The will of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme court provides an excellent climax for the career of this distinguished American.

After making what he regarded as suitable provisions for kin and for faithful, devoted servants, the residue is left to his country. It is estimated variously at a quarter to a half million dollars, depending, of course, upon the values of securities and other property at the time of their disposal and the ultimate settlement of the estate. He left one relative $100,000. He left some of those in his employ as much as $25,000. So it cannot be said that he was not considerate and generous in recognizing blood ties and in rewarding those who had made it their life work to assist in his physical and mental comfort.

But there were no strings attached to his gift to his country. Some anticipated it would go to the congressional library; others to similar activity closest his heart. But it was an outright, forthwith gift to the nation which he loved, which had honored, respected, and revered him. It is easy to believe in view of his attitude throughout life that purposely he made his bequest in this form that intelligent men might utilize the wealth he returned to his country in the method which gave promise of advancing the most for human good.

BUSINESS FIRST.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SCIENCE is combating the apparent reversion of a man in San Francisco to the ape type. The thing is important because if one man is changing to an ape, science is afraid we'll all go that way and some day we'll be back to where Darwin says we started. Well, what of it? As I look around the world today and see what's happening, when I think of all the autos driven by drunken drivers on the road and listen to the radio telling me what kind of toothpaste I've got to use and get dragged to a movie that gives me a pain in the neck I don't shudder at reverting to the ape type. I think I'd have lots more fun swinging by my tail from the tiptop of a high tree in the forests of Africa than having to go gloomily up and down the streets expecting a bandit to jump out at me from every alley or be knocked down by a hit-and-run driver at every corner. And after I revert to the monkey type I won't have to worry any more because of the rapidly rising price of everything I eat or wear. I'll just climb a palm tree and grab me off a coconut.

LXXXVII.

Moera, if Homer lived, you portion good
And evil to the children of the earth.
Surely your voice is terrible in mirth
And dark in tears, if yet from out the wood
Of years you watch the peopled cities rise
And fall and go to dust and rise once more,
Pathetic middens on the earth's wide floor,
Shadows that pass before your ancient eyes.
Surely your ears are weary of the sound
Of young men snarling where the banners soar,
Morose Japhetic jargonings of war,
And old men cackling while the time goes round.
And yet you cannot sleep, you cannot die.
You must keep watch while older gods go by.

ALL THE POLITICAL WISEACRES say that we, the middle class, are going to be wiped out. Gosh! then who will pay the taxes? But that isn't what we the great middle class object to. We don't mind being wiped out, but we kick like bay steers at being called the middle class. We feel that we are as good as anybody else and a damned sight better. Let us at least employ decent circumlocution—kindly call us the white collar boys.

THE NEW WILDERNESS.

III.

Through the hyacinthine twilight of a brief midwinter day, the saw-toothed sandstone cliffs, in their vestments of arbor vitae and scrub pine, become a meandering arrangement of Gothic dreams, as though Brangwyn were marshaling all of the decadent cathedrals upon the skyline to show in one far-flung silhouette their spired immortality.

In the deep dusk that is far below them the snows that cover the frozen waters pick up, step by step, the imprints of softly moving feet that make no sounds. They alone, and the hawk that slowly circles near the tallest spire, know them as they come: the mink, the opossum, the raccoon. And the juncoes and the snowbirds, gathered in the yellow-green willows and ash saplings, are bits of fear-frozen silence.

Far away, the crystalline air is violated by the baying of a lone wolf but lately home—yet even this violation is a part of the hastily dying picture—and the rumblings of the waters, as they clear the unseen rapids, pick up that cry of welcomed desolation and waft it windward.

. . . it is as though one is setting aside the husks of wornout years in humble recognition of their barrenness, and is now turning, hopefully, to a fresher harvest that is to come . . . the evening star never gleamed as it is gleaming now; in reality, it is not a star but a solitary pendant hung low upon the breast of night. Its very light is drawn from the kindling of new hopes. Solitary, it interprets those new hopes in scintillating, silent, light-shot music . . . a music without volume in that it cannot be intoned.

In the new wilderness reality is taking the place of artificial substitution . . . old philosophies wither and are no more . . . one reaches for new ones, and somewhere in the silence Henry Van Dyke is speaking again from his "Little Rivers" (perhaps even his beloved twin-flowers are returning and that is why his voice is so vibrant):

"To take with us into the unseen world something that will make it worth while to be immortal."

The new wilderness thus reveals the purpose of its return.

CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING.

MOTOR vehicles have added many problems, both economic and social. Not the least of these is the menace of carbon monoxide [incompletely burned carbon], which is contained in the exhaust gas from the engine. In an effort to account for the huge number of trafic accidents the thought has been advanced that the breathing of carbon monoxide, even in very dilute form, may be a factor because of its dulling effect upon the intelligence. Considerable publicity has been given to the danger of heating closed cars with the engine exhaust. There are so many opportunities for tiny leaks somewhere along the line that if the manifold type of heater is used the greatest mechanical care must be exercised.

Careful tests indicate that 15 parts of carbon monoxide in 10,000 parts of air is a sufficient concentration to be dangerous, particularly if breathed over any length of time.

The poisonous nature of carbon monoxide is due to the fact that it combines directly with the hemoglobin of the blood, binds that important oxygen carrying compound, and prevents its functioning. Unlike carbon dioxide, it cannot be dislodged from the blood. The longer we breathe air containing carbon monoxide the higher the concentration in the body.

Perhaps only a small proportion of trafic accidents may be traced directly to the breathing of carbon monoxide, but because of the loss of alertness due to the poison we should become carbon monoxide conscious in order to avoid becoming carbon monoxide unconscious. The cabs of trucks are usually small and may, if provided with an exhaust heater, permit the accumulation of this gas to a dangerous degree.

A recently reported case is that of a truck driver who apparently inhaled sufficient carbon monoxide to give him a severe headache. Sensing that he was not well, he parked his truck at the edge of the road with the intention of sleeping until morning. The engine was kept running, evidently to furnish heat. He was found dead a few hours later.

Symptoms that result from the inhalation of this gas are headache, vertigo, difficult breathing, heart palpitation, and a feeling of exhaustion. In severe cases there may be muscular cramps, pain in the stomach, blurring of vision, nausea, and vomiting. Slow absorption means that the individual is gradually deprived of a certain amount of hemoglobin. He may tire easily and complain of chilliness, shortness of breath, and ringing in the ears. The appearance of the patient is decidedly deceiving—he looks unusually well. The reason is that carbon monoxide, when combined with hemoglobin, presents a bright scarlet red color, much brighter than the color produced when oxygen is added to hemoglobin. With a patient who shows symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning plus a strikingly florid complexion, suspicion should be aroused.

Should poisoning develop with mild or acute symptoms, fresh air, the inhalation of oxygen, artificial respiration, and blood transfusion following bleeding is indicated. The intravenous injection of a 1 per cent solution of methylene blue is of the greatest value, and solutions of this dye in proper sized ampoules are available for physicians' use.

Prevention is of the first importance. The most rigid precautions must be taken to eliminate every possible source of carbon monoxide in garages and about cars or gas engines. Ventilation is the answer. This means fresh air uncontaminated with carbon monoxide. In other words, if carbon monoxide is present it may be diluted to such an extent that it will cease to become a cause for alarm. Driving on cold days in tightly closed cars, regardless of newness or mechanical perfection of the equipment, is, as a rule, unsafe. At least one window should be partially open.

TINGLING TONGUE.

R. C. L. writes: What could cause the tongue and mouth to feel as if I had had too much pepper, which I never use? Our family physician had me take a stomach test, thinking there was an acid condition, but found nothing wrong. Would a dental plate cause it?

REPLY.

A metallic taste in the mouth, accompanied by tingling, has been ascribed to different metals used in dental work. I would suspect also a bacterial growth on the tongue, or an infection with some such organism as the streptococcus. The condition known as trench mouth should be considered. If good mouth hygiene does not relieve the condition the dental work should be investigated.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

EVERYTHING WRONG.

On my first solo in a Martin bomber I started to take off and started swinging to the left. I put on right rudder but kept on swinging to the left. I ran out of right rudder and was still swinging to the left into a line of mesquite trees. I eased the right motor off a little but it didn't help much. I couldn't cut the gun and stop before I hit the trees. I could only hope to get into the air before I got up to them.

Suddenly my left wing started to lift and it dawned on me like a flash of shame what was wrong. I had had the wheel rolled to the right and my left aileron down. The resistance of that down aileron had swung me to the left at slow speeds and I had fought it with right rudder, but now at high speeds it was banking me to the right and I still had on right rudder. I was taking off in a right hand bank, with the controls set fully for it, even with the left hand motor pulling stronger than the right.

I never kicked and pulled so many things so fast before as I did right then. By some miracle I found myself fifty feet in the air instead of in a heap. But I was flying exactly at right angles to the direction I had originally planned on.

Everything seemed to be all right, so I went around and landed. I gave it the gun immediately on touching the ground and went around and landed again.

This time I saw a lot of cars coming out toward me. Maybe that take-off had looked pretty good. Maybe they thought I knew what I had been doing. The two landings had been good. Maybe they were coming out to congratulate me.

My instructor got there first. He ran over and started inspecting the right wing tip. He was looking underneath it. "Hey, you," he shouted at me when he looked up, "don't you ever get out and take a look after you crack up a ship?"

I had dragged the right wing for several hundred feet. The under side of the wing was badly torn up and the aileron was just barely hanging on.

AN ANNUAL EXPOSITION.

Chicago, March 12.—Though a permanent fair in Chicago might be highly desirable, the expenditure of lavish sums for the further development of the lake front seems hardly the proper expedient. The city of Chicago does not lie within the 90 acre tract in Burnham park chosen for this project.

If a permanent exposition is planned for our city it should be planned in the interests of the city as a whole rather than that of a restricted area which already has been amply renovated and improved to provide the required commercial advantages and facilities.

Chicago already has ample facilities with which to sponsor a yearly exhibition. It has its convention auditoriums, its various museums, its majestic movie palaces, theaters and music halls, its parks and beaches, and the new amusement Midway on Northerly island. These and other advantages provide adequate facilities for the celebration of a yearly exposition. All that is needed is a public acceptance of these facts and an official proclamation of a festive season every year, and, further, a continued extensive campaign of advertising of Chicago's sundry existing attractions.

R. W. DANON.

FROM A DEBATER.

Chicago, March 12.—Although I have faint hope that this shall be deemed proper to print, nevertheless I would take this opportunity to comment upon an editorial that appeared in Tuesday's TRIBUNE entitled "Miss Stein Lets In Some Fresh Air." Where did the person who wrote the editorial receive his information concerning the debate in question?

As one of the debaters who, on that occasion, represented the University of Chicago I thought that there might be an outside chance that you would be interested in what the debaters actually said. In the first place we were not discussing the prevention of war. The question for debate was: "Resolved, that the nations of the world agree to prevent the international shipment of arms." In no sense of the term could this debate be considered as a "pacifist discussion." Debate is engaged in primarily for speech developing value. We have debated this year five questions, ranging from federal aid to education and the problem of subsistence homesteads to socialization of medicine. The irony of the whole episode is that what we happened to be defending that afternoon as a program in international affairs pretty well coincides with the editorial policy of the World's Greatest Newspaper, which does prove, I will admit, that we were hard up for material, that we deserved to lose, and that even Miss Stein's remarks would merit a victory.

IRVING I. AXELRAD.

BUT OBSERVE THE COMPANY WE KEEP.

Huntington, Ind., March 11.—I am crushed. I feel much as I imagine his adoring fans felt after a certain historic session of Casey at the bat. Changing the metaphor, all my tail feathers are drooping. I crowed too lustily a few weeks ago when I penned my panegyric on the masterly English of THE TRIBUNE editors, for which I was promptly combed down by an irate Vox Pop of a different opinion. It is a relief now to remember that my pæan of praise was not totally undiluted, for I wrote that you editors "rarely fail to make the grade." Blessed word "rarely"! It saves my face.

I really did seem to be locking the door and throwing the key away, but I was keeping the transom open to crawl through when I used the word "rarely," having a shadowy fear that, soon or late, at least one of my idols would reveal feet of clay. But he has proved to have more than feet of clay; he lacks a very essential mental dimension.

Way back in my young manhood, remembering a very few of the elementals of English grammar laboriously inserted into my bean by Miss Van Eaton, my fourth grade teacher, I indited a few timid lines to Portia asking her if her father had not been careless with his English when he wrote "All that glistens is not gold." A sweet reply came in due time in which Portia wrote that I was too easy on her old dad; that he had been much more than careless with his English; he had been downright slovenly at times. And she added that my suggested amendment of the axiom "not all that glistens is gold" was more elegant and beautiful because correct. And she didn't say one word about Miss Van Eaton having been a prig. You see, she did not lack any of the dimensions necessary to a well developed symmetrical mind.

JOB FOR CWA.

Chicago, March 15.—I would like to offer a suggestion to PWA or CWA that a good use for some of the money and jobs would be to build up some of the city's disappearing curbstones. On the street where we live the CWA recoated the street last year, and since then there is no curbstone in the middle of the block and motorists continually drive over the parkways, destroying grass plots and trees, and keep all us mothers jittery for fear they will kill our little children playing on the sidewalks.

A MOTHER.

DEPRESSIONS IN HISTORY.

Chicago, March 11.—Mr. Reuben D. Cahn's talk on depressions, reproduced in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, was good, but it might be described as reading history with one eye. It is true there have been innumerable depressions from which the nations emerged without bloodshed. He overlooks, however, the French depression of 1789, which turned into the French revolution. He cites one Roman depression, but overlooks the social wars and the civil wars in which Cæsar and Augustus came to the top.

If he will re-read Ferrero's history of Rome he will have to pinch himself to realize that the account of Cæsar's politics was written over 30 years ago and not to show the parallel with the Democratic promises of 1932 and 1933. He will be staggered at the parallel between Huey Long's promises and the performance of Augustus in the redistribution of wealth, with the proscription and slaughter of the owners.

He even overlooks the history of devaluation itself. From many of the depressions he cites the nations emerged by way of devaluation. Readers of Hume get the impression that English kings devalued the currency as an exercise of prerogative for personal profit, but history shows governments as late as the nineteenth century yielding to mob demands for devaluation. He overlooks the history of the English pound, originally a pound of silver metal, which became so worthless after the Napoleonic wars that it had to be abandoned and a gold currency substituted.

Devaluation has always been the way out on war debts. The world has never been able to pay for its wars. The German mark was wiped out and the reichsmark substituted, just as the British substituted a new pound after the Napoleonic wars. The French franc, already devalued 80 per cent, is still reported unstable. The British pound sterling and the Canadian dollar, when they sell at par with the new American dollar, are devalued to 59.06 per cent, just like the American dollar. When they go lower they are devalued more than the dollar. Those who believe the British can or desire to restore the old gold content of the pound sterling may take comfort in their faith, but the matter remains one of realities.

The ancient and continuing history of devaluation would shake the opinions of those who never heard of it before and who are inclined to regard it as a mere brainstorm of the brain trust. Mr. Cahn, however, knows about devaluation and disapproves of it, but especially he regards resort to it as unnecessary. His argument seems to be that the world has muddled through countless depressions and we could have muddled through this one. His oversight is that there were many that were not muddled through, but ended in measures won by bloodshed when they did not go through to successful revolution.

HORNER SENDS 1 BILLION WORKS PROGRAM TO U. S.

Seeks 480 Millions to Give Jobs at Once.

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today forwarded to federal authorities at Washington a detailed public works program for Illinois contemplating the immediate expenditure of $480,000,000, and a total expenditure of $1,309,000,000 within a period of four years.

The program is predicated on the passage by congress of President Roosevelt's 4 billion 800 million plan to give work to all employables. It was prepared by the Illinois state planning commission, and was developed from information furnished by the state departments and local governmental units.

Nine Classes of Public Works.

Nine classes of public works are included in the list. These are waterworks, sewerage works, pavements and bridges, stream improvements and drainage, recreational, electrical plants and systems, airports and surveys. There are proposals for improvements in some 680 communities, with all of the 102 counties of the state sharing in the program.

"In submitting this program to the national resources board, of which Secretary of the Interior Ickes is chairman," said Gov. Horner," we have in mind more than the idea that public works may be the only real solution of the unemployment problem.

"If President Roosevelt's public works plan is approved by congress, Illinois should be among the first to share in it because of the list of worthy, needed and useful public works projects we are submitting. It is an all inclusive picture of a potential public works program in Illinois."

Program for Chicago.

For Chicago the program, which is incomplete, shows:

Project—	Immediate.	Long Term.
Water system	$ 22,000,000	$ 75,000,000
Sewer system	5,000,000	20,000,000
Pavements, bridges, subways, grade separated streets	62,000,000	127,000,000
Streams, dredging and improvements	300,000	1,000,000
Buildings	5,040,000	15,116,000
Recreation and parks	21,089,000	42,177,000
Electric lights, etc.	300,000	1,000,000
Totals	$115,729,000	$281,293,000

There also is listed $10,000,000 for a medical center in Chicago; $2,000,000 for a Calumet harbor improvement, and for the improvement of the Calumet-Sag channel $8,000,000 for immediate [within 18 months] expenditure and $24,000,000 for the four year period.

The Chicago list, the governor and Robert Kingery, state director of public works and buildings, explained, is not complete. The addition of other projects, it was said, might bring the total for the city of Chicago, not including the expenditures of the sanitary district and the county, close to 400 millions.

For Grade Separated Streets.

However, in the amount set up for grade separated streets in the long term program is $27,000,000 for an initial step in superhighway construction. Under the amount for water system is included the series of three filtration plants often proposed for the city. Chicago would benefit also from $24,000,000 set up for railroad grade separations.

A recapitulation of the thousands of items listed in the program under general classifications showing proposed immediate and long term expenditures follows:

Classification—	Immediate.	Long Terms.
Federal works in Illinois	$ 55,233,000	$ 141,411,000
State wide projects, not otherwise classified	44,281,000	162,681,000
State of Illinois projects	124,725,000	187,225,000
Local governmental projects	180,050,000	518,249,014
Completion PWA projects	50,000,000	.....
Housing	30,000,000	250,000,000

Crossroads of Nation.

In making up this program, the governor and the planning commission had its attention focused, they said, on the maintenance of Illinois as the "crossroads of the nation." They look a long range view of the state's needs for future growth, seeking to establish conditions for the welfare of a possible population of nine million people by 1960.

FIRST U. S. MURDER TRIAL IN CITY SINCE 1893 TO OPEN TODAY

When John Paul Chase goes on trial today for the slaying on Nov. 27 of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley of the department of justice, it will be the first time since 1893 that a murder case has been tried in the federal court. Moreover, the prosecution will be the first under the new federal statute which provides capital punishment and trial in a federal court for the murder of a government agent while on duty.

JOHN PAUL CHASE.

Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis were killed in a highway gun battle at Barrington in which Lester Gillis (Baby Face Nelson) was fatally wounded. Chase was Gillis' companion. He is under indictment also for the slaying of Hollis.

Assisting United States Attorney Dwight H. Green in the prosecution are Brien McMahon, a special assistant to the United States attorney general, here from Washington, and Assistant District Attorney James C. Leaton. W. W. O'Brien and William B. Henry represent Chase. To speed jury selection Judge Philip L. Sullivan has ordered two special venires of 100 men each.

BANDITS HOLD UP PARTY IN AUTO; GET $3,000 LOOT

Four occupants of an automobile were held up and robbed of nearly $3,000 in cash and jewelry early today in front of 4719 Drexel boulevard. The victims were Julian Eisenstaedt and his wife of 5012 Woodlawn avenue, Mrs. Harry Levy of the Drexel boulevard address, and Emanuel Marks, 1660 Hyde Park boulevard.

Mrs. Levy was the heaviest loser, the robbers compelling her to give up a $2,000 diamond ring, a $400 dinner ring, her watch, a $50 cigaret case, and her glasses; Eisenstaedt, who is a member of the Eisenstaedt Bros. company, manufacturers of neckwear, 222 West North Bank drive, gave up his watch valued at $150, and his wife her watch and a $50 ring. Marks surrendered $50 in cash.

The robbers sprang into the car when it stopped to permit Mrs. Levy to alight. One of them sat on her lap and the other on the lap of Marks while with drawn guns they collected the party's valuables. They escaped in their automobile which they had parked behind the Eisenstaedt car.

SPECIAL LEAGUE SESSION SEEN FOR ETHIOPIAN ROW

GENEVA, March 17.—(AP)—Ethiopia demanded today that the league of nations take early action in connection with her dispute with Italy claiming that direct negotiations have broken down. A communication to that effect was received at the league offices from Addis Ababa. It caused added uneasiness over European affairs.

The Ethiopian demand may necessitate a special session of the league council unless the leaders decide the dispute can be handled at the regular session in May.

NEW COMMITTEE TO SPEED COUNCIL WORK FORESEEN

Reorganization of the city council following the April 2 election, will bring the creation of a new and powerful steering committee to map comprehensive plans for the first uninterrupted four year council program, according to reports current yesterday.

This proposed committee would be composed of nine members, and would speed activities in the council by charting legislation, keeping other committees at work, and preventing the "burial" of any necessary ordinances in committee files.

It was also regarded as probable that Alderman James B. Bowler [25th], who has had twenty-five years' experience in the council, would be made chairman of this powerful committee. He resigned last year to become public vehicle commissioner, but resigned from that post in turn when reelected for a four year term from his ward.

The task of organizing the council, including formation of the new committee, rests with the committee on committees, and since four of the five members—Aldermen Jacob Arvey, Berthold A. Cronson, Thomas P. Keane, and James R. Quinn—who are expected to retain their posts favor the measure, it seems likely that the new group will be formed.

MARTIAN CLOUDS BEST IN DECADE, SCIENTIST SAYS

Mount Hamilton, Cal., March 17.—(AP)—What he describes as the most brilliant display of white clouds over Mars in a decade has been photographed by Dr. William H. Wright. Dr. Wright will succeed Dr. Robert G. Aitken as director of Lick observatory here July 1.

Dr. Wright described the clouds as being over the "equatorial region between the longitudes for the so-called lake of the sun and the sea of Sirens."

The photographs were taken with color filters. The clouds are sharply defined on violet photographs but are not seen on photographs taken with a red filter. This the observatory interprets as indicating the clouds are high up in the planetary atmosphere.

"The planet Mars, an object of interest alike to astronomers and people generally, is approaching opposition, and, therefore, coming into a favorable position for observation," said an observatory statement. "It will be in opposition on April 6.

"While the planet is not as near as it will be at the two following oppositions, which will occur at intervals of a little more than two years, it is a brilliant object of rather lurid hue in the early morning when it transits the meridian at 2 o'clock, and is sufficiently close for a satisfactory study of its surface with a telescope."

BOY WITH STOMACH OUT OF PLACE MAY HAVE AN OPERATION

Fall River, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—Another "upside down" stomach, that of a 13 year old San Jose, Cal., boy, tonight held the professional interest of Dr. Philemon E. Truesdale, whose recent operation on 10 year old Alyce Jane McHenry of Omaha, Neb., attracted wide attention.

Dr. Truesdale confirmed a statement by Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Neilson of San Jose that he had offered his services to their son, James, if they could bring him here.

Jimmy's condition was brought to Dr. Truesdale's attention by a letter the boy wrote to Alyce Jane, expressing his sympathy because of his own knowledge of her condition.

Alyce Jane, meanwhile, was reported to be recovering rapidly from her operation.

VOODOO TERROR TALES REFUTED BY HERSKOVITS

The stories of dreaded rites in Voodooism, a religion of West Indian Negroes which is especially prevalent among the Haitian peasantry, are largely untrue, according to Dr. Melville J. Herskovits, professor of anthropology at Northwestern university.

Dr. Herskovits recently returned from three months spent in the interior of Haiti where he lived with the natives and viewed numerous Voodoo ceremonies. For ten years Dr. Herskovits has been engaged in research throughout West Africa, Guiana, and Haiti, studying the physical types and cultures which resulted from the mixture of African and white civilization when Negro slaves were brought to the Americas.

"As pictured in fiction and the movies," said Dr. Herskovits, "voodooism includes blood rites and terrors. In reality the religion is most peaceful. The cult followers go to the ceremony regularly every Saturday night, and human sacrifice is unknown.

FLOODS MENACE MORE MISSOURI, ARKANSAS AREAS

50 Families Marooned on River Island.

Memphis, Tenn., March 17.—(AP)—Crop damage and live stock losses increased today as the St. Francis, White, and Black rivers spread out through a riddled levee system in southern Missouri and northeast Arkansas.

The rampaging St. Francis today broke through its levees near Nimmons, Ark., making a total of eighteen breaks thus far—ten in Arkansas and eight in Missouri. Water tonight surrounds a dozen small towns and villages in Arkansas. Just south of Senate, Mo., the Black and White rivers' overflow reached major proportions.

Live Stock Drowned.

More than 110,000 acres in the St. Francis basin were under water. Hundreds of head of livestock had been drowned. Considerable wheat acreage was ruined.

The St. Francis moved toward Black Oak, Mace, and Monette in Craighead county. Black Oak was in danger of possible inundation. Monette may be surrounded by morning. Mace also may be cut off.

Indications were that highway 18, near Lake City, Ark., would be under water tomorrow. Railroads placed box cars for refugees in central points in this area.

Towns Are Inundated.

On the west side of the river Liddell, Rhyne, Caryville, Nimmons, Bell City, and Patterson, in Clay county, were either inundated or surrounded, and the water had pushed its way up to the city limits of Piggott, six miles from the river.

The big Mississippi river, which has not figured in the flood picture, slowly neared a crest. A stage of forty-nine feet at Cairo, where the Ohio joins the Mississippi, was expected Wednesday. Meteorologists believe this will be the maximum level.

National Guardsmen were moved from Kennett, Mo., to Senate, where relief workers were trying to reach Allen's Island, where several families were reported marooned.

On the Arkansas side farmers shouldered shotguns to prevent dynamiting attempts.

Wednesday evening he will address a banquet in the Hotel Sherman, which will conclude the three day convention of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers. Gen. Johnson will stay at the Drake hotel.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm By Frank Ridgway

Some Spring Jobs.

March 17, 1935.

MEN at THE TRIBUNE auxiliary farm near Wheaton are bustling around nowadays with their first jobs of early spring work—pruning trees and vines, fixing the hotbeds, planting seeds in the greenhouse, nursing a young calf, taking care of a lotful of lambs, and building nests for turkeys and ducks.

During the last week John Wallner, head gardener, has been trimming the grapevines. He has cut back the new growth, leaving only three "eyes." This makes the vines stronger. The new wood bears the second year, according to Mr. Wallner.

Another early spring job in the garden has been the moving of grapevines from a fence row to the permanent vineyard.

Carl Henderson, manager of the farm, and his men have just completed their work of pruning the apple, pear, and cherry trees at the auxiliary farm. All of the dead limbs and suckers were removed from the trees and they are in fine condition for the season's growth. Black paint was applied where the limbs were sawed off; this prevents decay. The brush is being burned to aid in getting rid of fruit pests that harbor on the bark.

This week the gardeners will plant seeds of celery, parsley, cauliflower, and lettuce in the greenhouse. Later the plants will be transplanted into flats, and finally when there is no danger of frost they will be transferred to the open garden.

Mr. Wallner expects to get his hotbeds ready this week. He follows the plan of filling the hotbeds with about two inches of fresh stable manue, which is allowed to ferment for a week before any seeds are sown. At the end of a week the gases and excess heat have escaped and then the seed may be safely planted. The manure is covered with a six inch layer of rich black soil to form a seedbed. In the hotbeds will be planted an assortment of both flower and vegetable seeds.

The garden will be plowed as soon as the ground is dry enough to be worked. The garden was treated with a light covering of manure last fall before it was plowed. It will be given another dressing of well rotted manure before it is again plowed and thoroughly worked this spring for seeding.

Most of the frost is out of the lower layers of soil but it is dangerous to uncover the perennial beds, thus encouraging early growth, according to Mr. Wallner. Kept covered in the beds, none of the perennials has pushed shoots above the surface. The mulch on the beds prevents alternate freezing and thawing, which injures the young tender plants. This gardener says he will take off first only a small amount of the material, giving the tender shoots a chance gradually to become accustomed to the cold. He does not plan to uncover the perennial beds before April 1. Then he will leave a light covering of the mulch material to discourage growth for a while.

Down at the dairy barn here at the farm the Guernseys are celebrating the arrival of Cantigny Royal Blanche's new calf. This is the first spring calf to be comfortably housed in the new modern calf barn.

TEXAS RANGERS PRESS RAIDS ON GAMBLING HOUSES

Austin, Tex., March 17.—(AP)—Texas saloons and gambling houses either were closed tonight or their owners were "doing business as usual," but in fear of Gov. James V. Allred, who was pressing a state-wide drive against such establishments.

Texas rangers, aided by city and county officers, raided five more resorts here today. Following the raid here Thursday night raids were made in Galveston and Houston.

In the capital city four persons were arrested.

ROBOT AIRPLANE FUELED FOR NEW MYSTERY FLIGHT

Takeoff for Hawaii Awaits "Auspicious Weather."

Oakland, Cal., March 17.—(AP)—The crew of the commerce department's radio compass plane, enthusiastic over its latest performance at sea, prepared today to make another ocean flight but made no announcement as to when it would start or where it would take them.

The plane's big gasoline tanks were refueled, but the amount was not disclosed. Weather reports indicated clearing conditions over the Pacific between here and Hawaii, ultimate goal of the plane, but showed fragments of storm remaining on the course.

James L. Kinney, a member of the department of commerce staf, said the projected 2,400 mile flight to the islands would await auspicious weather. His associates indicated any immediate flight would be a short one.

Daughter Born to the Former Rosemary Baur

Grandmother in London to Welcome Baby.

BY JUDITH CASS.

By cable last night came the news of the birth of a seven pound baby daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull of London. The baby, which is the first child of the former Rosemary Baur and the first grandchild of Mrs. Jacob Baur, arrived on Saturday at a nursing home where Mrs. Bull is a patient.

The Bulls were married in the fall of 1931 at one of society's largest and most fashionable weddings in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church. Previous to her marriage Mrs. Bull had made her debut at a series of receptions at her mother's Astor street home.

Mrs. Baur, who vacationed in Palm Beach earlier this winter, went to London a fortnight ago to be present at the baby's birth. She has also been overseeing the redecoration of the Bulls' home, which is one of the oldest houses in London.

Mr. Bull is a son of W. Perkins Bull, K. C., of Toronto and London. Mr. and Mrs. Bull visited Chicago last in September, 1932, upon their return from a honeymoon world tour, which lasted a year.

Peabodys Sell Yacht for Use of Sea Scouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody may have derived an abundance of pleasure from their 30 foot cruiser, the Anita, the last several years, but it's scarcely possible that this pleasure can equal the enjoyment a number of Chicago's Sea Scouts are going to find cruising inland waterways in the boat this coming summer.

The Peabodys have sold the yacht, named for Mrs. Peabody, to a Chicago attorney, Anthony J. Caliendo, who is the skipper of a ship of Sea Scouts. One of the first trips he expects to treat his young sailors to is a cruise through the Great Lakes and down the St. Lawrence river. The boat, a double cabin cruiser, is now in dry dock in Navy Pier, but it will be in the water again the middle of April.

Mr. Caliendo's Scouts may well consider themselves fortunate, for there are few Sea Scout ships [ships mean troops] that have the advantage of a boat of their own. One of the others is the ship that meets at the Christ church parish house in Winnetka and has Godfrey H. Atkin for its skipper. These boys have a 43 foot schooner named the Albatross. Last summer they cruised up to Sturgeon bay along the west shore of Lake Michigan.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield were off by train for Miami, where they will await the arrival of the rest of their family. Their son, Wrigley, is going south on his spring vacation from his eastern preparatory school and the Denis E. Sullivans Jr. [Betty Offield] are flying down tomorrow, weather permitting.

They are all boarding the Whereaway, the boat the junior George F. Getzes chartered earlier in the winter, for deep sea fishing in the Florida Keys. They will make Key Largo and Key West their chief ports. Mr. and Mrs. Offield came back to Chicago just a week ago today from Mexico.

Opera Comique to Draw Fashionable Audience.

A fashionable audience will be at the Auditorium theater tonight to hear the first performance of the first Chicago festival of the New York Opera Comique. "La Vie Parisienne," full of lively musical numbers, will be the production.

Those who will be in the audience include Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and the Barrett Wendells.

Nicholas Roosevelt, former United States minister to Hungary, is coming to Chicago this week-end to lecture at a luncheon of the council of foreign relations at 12:30 Saturday at the

THE validity of the incident is vouched for by a girl named Evelyn Breger. A written order from the furniture buyer of one of the largest department stores to the warehouse called for "one boofa." The puzzled warehouse manager referred the order back to the buyer, who, upon glancing at his own handwriting on the slip, exclaimed, "O, I left off the 'y'; there . . . it should be 'boofay.'"

IT'S surprising some one didn't think of it before, writing a murder story with all the well known authors of murder stories as characters in the book, with each working on the case after his own method. Such a book is "The Smiling Corpse," by an anonymous writer, a book much better than its name. The murder takes place at a literary tea party. G. K. Chesterton immediately puts the Father Brown on the respective guests; Sax Rohmer, the Fu Manchu man, links the killing with Chinatown and the cook, Wong; Willard Huntington Wright does a Philo Vance, getting erudite about oriental puzzle boxes, in one of a collection of which the gun is found, and Dashiell Hammett goes out to tough joints, gets shot, and drinks a good deal. And locked in the apartment until the murderer is discovered are Dorothy Parker, James Thurber, Gilbert Gabriel, Harold Ross, Alexander Woollcott and all the other New York literati.

Open Sessions Tomorrow on Home Problems

Midwest Women to Hear National Authorities.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Away back in the dawn of history a caveman's wife seared her finger instead of a hunk of meat she was readying for a meal—learning a valuable lesson—and ever since women have advanced in their own traditional sphere by the same painful process of trial and error—until now. This week several thousand of them will apply the clinical method, in scientific, civilized fashion, to their common problems in the first Midwest Conference on Homemaking, at the Hotel Sherman.

Today's bride still scorches her hands—literally—they emphasize, but an impressive array of national authorities, assembled for this event, will instruct her how best to avoid future accidents, figurative as well as actual. Not only the cake that won't rise but also the salary that has fallen, the child that runs away and the one that won't budge from his mother's apron strings, the beneficial and the wasteful uses of leisure, and similar topics will be analyzed and discussed during the three day sessions, opening tomorrow.

From Washington will come Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, recently appointed to succeed Mrs. Mary Rumsey as chairman of the consumers' advisory council of the NRA; Ruth O'Brien, chief of the textile division of the United States bureau of home economics, and Dr. Adelaide S. Baylor, chief of the home economics division of the United States office of education, to participate as sages in their different fields, to offer advice, and to answer questions.

A. Lawren Brown of Boston will represent the American Association for Economic Education, discussing on the program some of the commonest difficulties women encounter in money management.

Speakers will include Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, president of the National Congress of Parent-Teachers; Raymond W. Fairchild, president of Illinois State Normal university; Edna Dean Baker, president of the National College of Education; Anne Davis of the Illinois state department of labor; George Hambrecht, director of the state board of vocational education; Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen of Loyola university; Mrs. Geline Bowman, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, and numerous others.

An extensive exhibit of unbranded foods has been prepared in connection with the conference, at which demonstrations will be given of new ways of preparing and handling. This feature of the program is under the auspices of the Household Science institute, and will be directed by Miss Meta Given. Better buying practices also will be taught.

Organizations sponsoring the three day gathering are the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, the Congress of Parents and Teachers of the five states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, and Michigan; the Chicago Red Cross, Big Sisters, Catholic Woman's league, National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago section; Chicago Woman's Aid, Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education, Chicago Council of Camp Fire Girls, Chicago Tuberculosis institute, Greek Women's University club, Girl Scouts of Chicago, Italian Aid Federated Clubs, Medical Women's National association, the Chicago Woman's club, and the Household Science institute.

The Kenwood Social Service club will meet at 2:30 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Broadus Clarke, 5555 Everett avenue.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

You've heard of things being completely cuckoo? "It Happened in New York" is a film that's that way.

The nutty plot has to do with the temperament and tribulations of a famous movie actress who is endeavoring to wangle a vacation for herself. Her indefatigable press agent is determined that she shan't.

Vania's rebellion against the various publicity stunts Haywood has arranged causes her life story to meet and mingle for awhile with that of an up and coming young taxi driver, Charley Barnes, and the pretty switchboard operator he's engaged to Chris Edwards. The latter has been one of Vania's most frantic fans until—it looks as if her own man is falling for the siren. Then things are different. . . .

Gertrude Michael's charmingly facile interpretation of Vania is the picture's outstanding feature. She, somehow, makes you feel desperately sorry for the sought after favorite whose crazy efforts to escape from her goldfish bowl are so futile.

Heather Angel and Lyle Talbot are nice as the young lovers, and Hugh O'Connell plays the press agent with a neat sense of comedy.

The piece moves rapidly and will, I think, prove entertaining, if you're not too difficult to please.

See you tomorrow.

Pat O'Brien Flashes to Fore as Leading Irish Movie Actor

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 17.—[Special.]—Since the heyday of Tom Meighan, there has been no one particular Irish film star who took the Gaelic element of fandom by storm to the same degree.

Now comes Pat O'Brien, with the map of the isle all over his face, a bit of brogue that still breaks through all his years of educated diction from the stage, and a disposition that fits the face and the brogue, to make it seem as if Tom Meighan's shoes may at last have found a new wearer.

Irish on both sides—dad and mother—this brown haired and blue eyed 175 pounder from Milwaukee has been pushing into emphatic notice at Warner studio during the last year. "Front Page," "Gambling Lady," "College Coach," and "Bureau of Missing Persons" made the fans notice him. "Flirtation Walk," "Here Comes the Navy," and "Devil Dogs of the Air" won't let the fans forget him.

Pat, whose full name is William Patrick, was attending Marquette High school, where he won the gold medal for elocution, when he became involved in a dispute with Papa [William J.] O'Brien, Milwaukee furniture man, over the son's desire to become an actor.

Stylish for Mothers

[Lawson photo.]

Peasant style shirring at the neck of the coat and dress are among the features of this stylish print outfit designed for those awaiting blessed events. Other features of these specially designed clothes are described by Rhea Seeger today.

Design Clothes for Those Who Buy Layettes

Easy to Wear Costumes Are Smart, Stylish.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here's a column to the young ladies who are practicing cradle songs. You can't spend all your time making tiny stitches or scales for the lullabies, but you can go shopping for clothes for yourself.

Understanding designers who probably gathered experience themselves before they cut and seamed these new costumes for you and other similarly perplexed and particular future cradle rockers [it is said the cradle rocking stunt is being revived so that the coming generation won't be so durned self-sufficient] have really done a grand job.

There's a shop in town where the clothes are sensationally good looking and easy to wear. As a disguise they are perfect—something about the ingenious manner the wrap around skirt is cut and managed with an assortment of extra snaps and such. The wrap around section has been cleverly cut so that it will never hike up in front, a disconcerting trick which is one of life's major catastrophes.

The necklines are grand, flattering affairs with all the unusual devices of bows, puckered necklines with tasseled ends, jabots with a French flair and snap. In short, every detail has the mark of the newest spring models.

There are two piece costumes of dress and separate coat or jacket made of sparkling new painted silks. The colorful designs are small and easy to wear, and there are so many different color combinations that you will be dizzy counting them. There are stunning stripes and plaids combined with dark plain colored crêpes that make knockout street outfits, things that you keep and wear after the christening party, and if that isn't a good test, nothing else can be.

Thin wools, flattering sheers of silk or chiffon, and all the gayest of spring prints; whatever you find and take these are unquestionably among the best finds in town. Dash down to see them while they are new and fresh and crisp.

The picture shows one of the printed silk ensembles—a finger tip length coat and a peasant type dress with shirred or puckered neckline. You'll find it in black, brown, and navy with contrasting colored printed designs and trim. It has a moderate price tag.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician, who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the De Bellesnaves arouses Sarah's suspicion. Beryl Tomlins dies suddenly. She had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjorie Barrows. Sarah had received capsules for Miss Venables at the same time. Dr. Gilcrest states that her death was caused by an intestinal hemorrhage. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter telling her she has one more day to live.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A HERALD OF DOOM.

The night passed safely and now the seventeenth of April was here. One year to the day since Maj. Frampton perished . . .

Sarah suggested making the doctor's orders about keeping quiet an excuse for remaining in her room, but Miss Venables, obstinate in her sense of duty, held fast to her intention of meeting Beryl's sister, Mrs. Cripps, in Hyeres.

Sarah saw the futility of argument, so gave in.

"Did you rest well?" she asked. "You were writing rather late, weren't you? I heard your pen scratching."

"I was." Miss Venables adjusted her hair net, turned, and picked up a pile of sealed envelopes from the table. "This," she said, handing Sarah the top one, "is for you. No, don't open it. Perhaps you will not have to do so at all, for if by tomorrow I am unharmed I shall have it back again to destroy. If not—" She paused, then continued steadily, "well, read it, and carry out the instructions I have given. The other letters—they are for Harry, Maddalena de Bellesnaves, and Dr. Gilcrest—are to be delivered at once, but only in the event of my death. I shall put them here, in this drawer, so you will have no trouble in finding them. No harm, is there, in being prepared for any emergency?"

"I found Henri loading his old service revolver."

"Of course not," agreed Sarah, treating the matter with more calmness than she felt. "But there won't be any emergency, so don't let's think about it."

Always practical, always provident, Christine Venables had, so to speak, put her house in order. Now, outwardly at least, she was surveying the future with tranquil resolution. What a character she had!

Sarah's own envelope was oddly bulky. What was written on the many pages it enclosed? Probably they would never be read . . .

. . . . . .

They had returned from Hyeres. Mrs. Cripps—a pale, freckled woman, very dowdy and disheveled from her journey and inarticulate from fatigue and a sort of helpless distraction—had just gone into the hotel, leaving her companions to follow, when from the shade of the lopped plane-trees Demosthenes slouched forward to lay a grimy paw on Miss Venables' sleeve. Sarah, all her vague fears revived, thrust herself between, but already her employer, at first startled, was giving an apologetic little laugh.

"Is it you, Demo?" she asked kindly. Evidently the Greek held no terrors for her. "And what is that you have—a note for me? Wait, then, till I see what it says."

She examined the note through her lorgnette and clicked her tongue in dismay.

"Dear me! This is very distressing. I had no idea—but then, it seems, neither had she . . . Thank you, Demo, no answer is required."

The gardener pocketed the ten franc tip bestowed on him, sidled closer, and smirked boldly into her face.

"Fine weather," he announced, blandly disregarding the heavy dullness of the sky and the leaves twisting their pale undersides upward in ominous fashion. "Lady like sail? Monsieur say I take you and other lady this afternoon, tomorrow maybe, what time you want go. Two o'clock, maybe?"

Miss Venables' smiling refusal was very carefully managed. Demo was to thank his master, who was indeed thoughtful to have sent so kind a message, but just at present she had no fondness for boats. It did not seem to occur to her that the invitation might well have been issued without the Baron's knowledge, although when the messenger, sullen disappointment apparent beneath his oily grin, had swaggered off to the café across the square, she did remark on how surprising such courtesy seemed in view of Maddalena's communication. Her brow was deeply furrowed with anxiety on her friend's account, and as soon as they were again in the safe haven of their rooms she showed Sarah the note. It had been written the evening before, and announced the baroness' immediate departure for Arles.

"But this is extremely sudden, isn't it? She said nothing about it yesterday."

"Something alarming occurred. I do hope she's doing the wise thing to get her husband into different surroundings. A lonely château seems hardly the best place. How glad I'd be if only she'd accept help from me! It's no use suggesting it, though. I've tried before and came near offending her.

The château was the property of the baron's cousin, Comte Hector de Lagniolles, an archaeologist who lived for the main part in Nice. Sarah had heard him mentioned, and as he was much attached to the baron it was natural for the baroness to seek his advice. On being telephoned about the difficulty he had at once placed the château at his relatives' disposal, merely saying that as the building was in a ramshackle state little fit for habitation Mme. de Bellesnaves had better inspect it before making the move. He had sent his car to take her to Arles. She must have been driving all night, having left Gilcrest in charge of her husband to see he came to no harm.

Again Sarah interrupted her reading. "The doctor didn't consider there was any danger, did he? Don't you recall how impatient he was when you asked him about the baron?"

"Yes, but that was before he heard."

The last paragraph explained matters: ". . . I found Henri loading his old service revolver. It is hidden now where he can't find it again, but what good will that do if this frightful idea is firmly fixed in his mind? I am desperate about him. The one remedy I can think of is complete removal from anything which can remind him of the poor dog. Am I not right? You will visit us at the château. Dear Chrissie, I depend on you so! Hector's car is waiting. I am too shaken to write more, but I shall be back tomorrow evening at latest."

Sarah herself felt shaken. The huge, ill-formed scrawl had every appearance of having been dashed off in great mental stress. But was the baroness really as perturbed as she made out? The loss of her husband could not mean a heart-breaking disaster.

In spite of the counter irritation provided by worry over her friends, Miss Venables had not entirely forgotten her own situation. Within these walls the seventeenth of April could pass in safety. It was half gone now, and thus far there was nothing to distinguish it from other days. Sarah breathed a sigh and rang for the waiter.

At two o'clock—the hour Demosthenes had proposed for the sail—the mistral burst in full fury, to continue for many hours. Soon every nerve was lacerated by the monotonous scream of the wind and by the incessant patter of sand beating on the closed window panes. Ever afterwards Sarah found it impossible to think of this trying afternoon without its twin irritations of shrieking sound and inescapable grit. To her a mistral was always to mean a herald of doom.

Mrs. Cripps arrived, battered and raw from an excursion to the graveyard, her red rimmed eyes watering. She was a vague, irresolute creature, utterly unlike her sister, but exasperating as Sarah found her she created a diversion—unwelcome though it turned out.

Something was wrong. Beryl's sister had a problem on her mind, and was afraid to speak of it.

"I'm glad you've spoken with the doctor," the spinster remarked, calmly pouring tea. "I'm sure you've a better understanding now of the reason for your sister's sudden collapse."

Lower Heels on Shoes Promise Foot Comfort

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The best news out of Paris that has appeared in a long time is the news that women are going to go in for the shoes with flatter heels this year.

All women have to do to right former wrongs of dress is to say: "We will wear such and so." The manufacturers hop at once into the business of supplying the demand. In the case of the lower heeled shoe, already the best cobbler brains are at work on designs that will permit the larger foot adoption of the lower heeled shoe. They're accomplishing this with strappings and cut-outs and other tricks known to the trade to make a shoe appear smaller.

As I said some time ago, it won't be long before the woman pivoting around on spiked heels will be as much a last year's edition as would be today's woman in a skirt length of five or six years ago. For day wear, that is.

If she's dancing she's up on the front of her feet anyway, and she can't do much damage. At any rate, it is a concession permitted by the more generous foot authorities.

All of which leads up to my real suggestion for the day. This low heeled trend is going to call for better foot action in the fore part of the foot, which, in turn, means that you have to begin strengthening it for the walk for which the lower heeled shoe will call. The walk is best in any flat shoe, but impossible to do on the spike heel.

There's the simplest sort of exercise you can do which, no matter how you're shod, will make you walk better, because it strengthens that forepart of the foot, the broadest part of it. It's simply walking around on it, rising up and down on the front part of the foot. You can do it when you're doing the dishes, when you're going from kitchen to bedroom to living room, around the office, anywhere, any time. Get this up-on-the-toes custom. It will be just the best little foot habit you ever did acquire.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, has consented to be chairman of the reception committee of the costume ball to be given by the Newspaper Women's club, March 30, at the Willard for the benefit of the Children's hospital and the club's fellowship fund. Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guest of honor and occupy a box.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Right now, when the capriciousness of the weather has left its mark on your complexion, is the best time to remind you of one of the most luscious of creams, a cream that is higher priced than some, but not an extravagance.

It's a pink cream, with a delightful fragrance, and in texture it's like none you've ever used before; it has a sponginess that we like immensely. It serves a double purpose. It's an efficient cleanser and also a treatment cream. The manufacturer of it is convinced that no other cream is necessary if this is used faithfully as cleanser and emollient.

This rose cream that banishes the dryness that breeds peeling has a pleasant running mate in a delightful lotion that is champagnelike in its freshness. While it doesn't sting, the skin feels delectably cooled and pepped up. Used after the cleansing cream, it's a perfect finishing touch.

BY MARY MEADE.

A casual sort of questionnaire circulated among a few clever cooks of our acquaintance reveals a deplorable situation concerning the use of grape juice. In almost every case its use is being limited to [1] occasional breakfast beginner, [2] cooling summer beverage, and [3] ingredient in various fruit punches and the like. Tsk, tsk! We're hoping that our queries happened to strike the wrong people [questionnaires always are turning out wrong!] because grape juice has so much more to offer than just those three uses. Drink it, naturally, but let it help you out in the three times a day job of cooking, too, if you will.

How about a chilly, refreshing grape sherbet with Sunday's roast, just to get off to a flying start! Or, if you'd rather, serve it for dessert, as a sure preventive of that loggy, stuffed, Sunday afternoon feeling.

Old stuff, you say? Then switch to this delicious concoction instead:

Graham Grape Juice Mold.
1 tablespoon butter
1½ cups grape juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water
½ cup crushed graham crackers
¼ cup nut meats
½ cup sliced bananas

Add the butter to the grape juice and heat. Stir in the cornstarch, which has been mixed with the cold water, and cook until thick and transparent. Cool the thickened mixture, fold in the crushed graham crackers, nuts, and sliced bananas, and pour into a buttered mold to chill. Serve cold with whipped cream.

A grape juice sponge is another dessert idea. It's frothy and tempting, and most simply made by slowly heating 2 cups of grape juice with 2 tablespoons of granulated gelatin until the gelatin dissolves, chilling, whipping until frothy, and folding in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs.

Now for an elegant variation upon the sponge theme:

Concord Pineapple Whip.
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup grape juice
¾ cup sugar
2 egg whites
1 cup crushed pineapple
½ cup shredded coconut

Soak the gelatin for several minutes in the lemon juice. Add it then to the boiling grape juice, stir in the sugar, and chill until it begins to stiffen. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and, finally, the crushed, drained pineapple and coconut. Chill and serve lightly piled in sherbet glasses, sprinkled with additional toasted coconut.

Baked peaches with grape juice and crumbled macaroons are another delight you shouldn't deny your family. It goes like this:

Baked Peaches with Grape Juice.
8 peach halves, canned
6 small almond macaroons
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup grape juice

Place six of the peach halves in a baking dish, cut side up. Mince the other two halves coarsely and mix with the crushed macaroons, well beaten egg yolk, and sugar. Fill the peach cavities with the mixture, pour the grape juice over the top, and bake at 400 degrees F. for about 20 minutes. Serve either hot or cold, with thick cream.

Grape juice makes a nice filler-in on the jelly shelves, too, if they're at low ebb. This one is a nice, spicy accompaniment for meats and appears at equally good advantage with bread, hot biscuits, or waffles.

Spiced Grape Jelly.
2 cups grape juice
¼ cup sweet cider
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
4 cups granulated sugar
½ cup commercial liquid pectin

Mix the juice, spices, and sugar in a large saucepan and bring to a full boil. Add the pectin at once, stirring constantly, and boil vigorously for just one-half minute. Remove from the heat, skim, and pour quickly into sterile jelly glasses and seal with paraffin. Five 8 ounce glasses of richly colored, full flavored, sparkling grape jelly—ample reward for five minutes' work, don't you agree?

Beribboned Chic for Child

CHILD'S DRESS.

This little party dress was made originally of crisp white organdy embroidered in pale blue dots, and the same shade of blue taffeta ribbon was used for trimming it. For more practical wear, use dotted dimity, candy striped batiste, pastel lawn, or mercerized cotton broadcloth. It's as easy as possible to make. The only sewing that will take time is making the bound slashes through which the ribbon is drawn.

The pattern, No. 3038, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years.

Scoop!—The spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale. Its pages present the latest models for spring, designs that forecast early summer styles, comprehensive suggestions for assembling colors and fabrics, and feature articles intriguing to women everywhere. The price is 15 cents; 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Girl Who Faces Long Betrothal Oughtn't to Forego All Fun

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Waiting for young professionals to graduate seems a long wait for some young women. Jane is but another confronted with the question of how to manage the intervening years so that there will be some fun in her life. Her beloved is away at college. In all she seems to face a wait of at least five years.

There's another suitor close at hand to complicate the situation. He already has a job but doesn't measure up otherwise with the one who is away at school.

It would seem as if you modern maids could manage a few friends for dancing partners without any discomfort to the boy off at school. It all seems to 1900 for a young woman to abandon all good times involving a male escort, or, for her, in turn, to expect a young man to absent himself from female company. It isn't being asked or done any more.

It would be better, under the circumstances, not to become engaged until a little closer to the time when marriage can be considered. Long engagements rarely turn out as planned originally.

Palmer house. Mr. Roosevelt, a newspaper man, will discuss "The Troublesome Balkans."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former administrator of the NRA, is due in town today to give another lecture in the series "Six Views of Tomorrow" sponsored by Northwestern university. Gen. Johnson's subject tonight at Thorne hall on the McKinlock campus will be "Regimentation or Partnership." Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McLennan, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, and Edward I. Cudahy will be a few of those in the audience.

The second of a series of five lectures for the benefit of the Convent of the Cenacle will be given this afternoon at the Lake Shore Drive, with Mrs. John MacMahon as the hostess. The Chapel Guild of the Cenacle, sponsoring the series has obtained George H. Derry as lecturer.

Board members of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children will meet for luncheon today at the Casino club as guests of Mrs. Daniel Peterkin and Mrs. Daniel Green. Mrs. Charles Middlebrook will preside at the business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Henderson have just received word from London that Mr. Henderson's new consular post is New York and that he will serve there as vice consul. Certainly the Hendersons are no happier that they are not leaving this country than are their many friends here. Before taking up his new post Mr. Henderson will take Mrs. Henderson (the former Paula Wilms) to Bermuda for a three weeks' holiday.

Announce Engagement of Clara Ward Seabury.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury, well known Oak Park residents, are making known the engagement of their daughter, Clara Ward, to Daniel Boone, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Boone. Miss Seabury attended Dana Hall at Wellesley, Mass., and was graduated last June from the University of Chicago. Mr. Boone is a graduate of the University of Michigan. They will have a home wedding the middle of May.

Most of Miss Eleanors Sims' friends will be surprised this morning to learn that she and Richard L. Alexander, to whom her engagement was announced late in January, were married quietly at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The ceremony was read at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Sims, in the presence of only the immediate families. Mr. Alexander's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Alexander of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Jane Sims, whose engagement to Louis A. Richardson was announced in January at the same time as that of her sister, was the maid of honor and Cyrus Elwood Holland was best man. At 1 o'clock Mr. Alexander and his bride boarded the train for New Orleans. Upon their return they will make their home at 2662 East 73d street. Miss Jane and Mr. Richardson are to be married in July.

Plan Party Table for Flower Show.

Mrs. Thomas H. Fisher [Ruth Page] should get a thrill out of the exhibit the Winnetka Garden club is planning for the annual flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois to open April 6 on Navy Pier.

Quite without Mrs. Fisher's knowledge the Winnetka group has voted to set a table as if for a party for the danseuse. They have pointed out that the idea has unlimited possibilities and have already decided that a dancing figure will have a prominent place in the decoration.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A WIDESPREAD MISCONCEPTION.

I find that a surprising number of keen contract players think that whatever they pass, as dutiful Sims players, a hand with which many systems would insist on an opening bid, they may be making it harder to reach a slam which should be bid. In other words, that if you pass a hand which is "almost a Sims bid" you cannot later give your partner a true picture of your strength in so far as the slam angle is concerned. My opinion is that the actual facts are EXACTLY THE OPPOSITE OF THIS, and accumulating experience confirms this view with unfailing consistency. If you open on a doubtful hand, you cannot rebid convincingly or boldly, and slams are generally based on rebids no less than on the original bid. You may have reserve values in a slightly remote form [e.g., the great club length in the North hand given below] which you cannot rebid properly if they constituted part of your original bid, though actually they may be the main constituent of a certain slam. As compared with this, if you have already passed, you can rebid them in the most positive manner, as they are now reserve values which your partner could not expect. In the former case, you have placed yourself in a position of having to sign off in reply to strong bidding by your partner, because, if you do otherwise, you may be misleading him; he may well read any constructive rebid by you as showing reserve value in primary form, and so bid seven when six is the limit. Yet having condemned yourself to a succession of signoffs, you may have silenced yourself regarding the real slam factor which you hold but do not dare to show because you cannot know whether or not it is a slam factor.

John L. Simons of Kingston, Pa., a reader of these articles, raises this point regarding the following hand:

NORTH [Dealer]	SOUTH
Sp.—K 10 x	Sp.—A x x
Ht.—J x	Ht.—A K Q 10 x
Di.—x	Di.—Q 10 x
Cl.—A K 10 x x x x	Cl.—Q J

Rightly maintaining that North should pass and that the slam bidding will be helped rather than hindered by such pass. Incidentally, if North's club and spade holdings were exchanged, he should open the bidding, as the hand is now extremely aggressive for purposes of a spade game. As it is, I would pass, as game appears unlikely unless partner can open, while if the opponents have the hand on you, that club suit offers a safe refuge to which to retire after a series of barricade or psychic interference doubles or bids of a strategic nature.

BIDDING IN RUBBER PLAY should be, I think:

North, pass.

South, one heart.

North, two clubs. This implies a rebid of some kind, or safety in hearts if South can rebid them.

South, two no trumps. A strong bid showing general resources.

North, four clubs. The jump comes in beautifully now. It says, "Your rebid makes me optimistic of more than game; forget about three no trumps; our destiny is five or six in a suit."

South, five clubs. Since you can jump in clubs, lacking the Q J, you must have great length and also a fine distribution, as up to now you have been expecting to lose two club tricks. I am telling you that there are presumably no club losers.

North, six clubs. The diamond singleton and the lead in spades coming up to the king confer on him the slam decision with himself as declarer.

IN MATCH-POINT PLAY I think that South must gamble on his heart honors as well as the higher trick value and bid three hearts over two clubs, a slightly unsound bid except in a tournament. Four clubs by North, five clubs by South, five hearts by North, realizing that South can now throw his losers on the long clubs, so that the jack x of hearts can be used to draw trumps and need not be applied to ruffing diamonds. Six hearts by South. Had North been without his singleton and outside king, he would have had to bid three no trumps over three hearts. The fact that instead North rebid clubs and finally raised hearts enables South to slam in hearts.

Intelligence Better Goal than Obedience in Training a Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Donning gay red woolen cap and woolly gloves, she swung down the path cut through the deep dry sparkling snow with her skis on her shoulder.

"C'mon, Poochie!" she called, just glancing back. "C'mon—we're going for a walk." She turned her bright young head a little farther, then stopped, because no Poochie dogged her heels. And no cajoling could induce the Scottie to budge from the doormat where he sat. The child complained to her mother of the dog's disobedience.

"Darling," she said mildly, "if you'd stop and think a minute you'd realize that there's nothing the matter with Pooch except that he's intelligent. The last time he went with you when you went skiing he had to flounder in the deep snow because his legs are so short and he got his pads so packed with ice that he cried with pain. He sees your skis and he's got too much sense to let himself in for that experience again."

A friend of mine said the other day: "ell, when you get a pup you may concentrate on making him obedient or you can train him to be intelligent."

To a large extent this is true with children. The child whose parents have concentrated on developing their child's intelligence instead of making a fetish of obedience are fitting him best for the world.

Range of Tone Gives Beauty to Choral Concert

Federal Glee Club Heard at Kimball Hall.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Federal Glee club, singing at Kimball hall, took an important part in yesterday afternoon's musical observances. This Negro male chorus numbers thirty-two members and is conducted by William E. Myricks. He would seem to have shown much ability both in organization and direction, for the group is full of good voices who know how to sing.

They range all the way from a full toned, jubilant shout to a mere whisper of tone, and it is here, perhaps, that the ability of the director is most in evidence. For their restraint is not a weak tone, but one of throttled down power, and it creates a beautiful effect.

The program was both sacred and secular, and from composers of both the Negro and white races. A group of spirituals arranged by Director Myricks began the program, followed by a group of Negro composers, which brought to attention again the great merit of such songs as Dett's "Listen to the Lambs" and Cook's "Swing Along."

Marion Geary Cooper, pianist, and Maurice Cooper, tenor, were the assisting artists, of whom only the second could be heard. He has a striking talent, a slightly breathy lyric tenor voice of uncommon beauty, a well trained ability to project words in the English and Italian languages, and what would seem to be an entirely musicianly equipment for the performance of Handel and Mozart.

Erika Thimey, dancer, assisted by Vivien Watkins and the pianist, Monda Redman, gave a program of modern dances at the Goodman theater yesterday afternoon. A considerable portion of the program called for the accompaniment of four percussionists, who tinkled and tapped to the movements and steps of the dancers with rather engaging effect. Miss Thimey, an alert and active artist, is expressive of body and face, able to depict both picture and mood vividly, understanding always that her picture and her mood belong to the Wigman school and not that of the Russian ballet.

Leonard Gay, a talented young pianist, appeared in recital at Lyon & Healy Music hall yesterday afternoon. A Chopin group and a Beethoven sonata occupied the first part of the program, which turned somewhat later to modern composers, including Edward Collins and Rudolph Ganz of Chicago, and concluded with Liszt. Mr. Gay has a forceful and assured approach to piano music, an excellent touch, and much persuasive ability in lyric passages. His technic powers are fairly well developed.

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks reasserted their right to second place in the National Hocky league's American division tonight by defeating the New York Rangers, 5 to 2, in the final game of the regular season here. The score duplicated the one the Blackhawks made against Boston last night to clinch second place.

The Chicagoans displayed a smart, effective, all-around game that stamped them as dangerous contenders in the coming Stanley cup playoffs, in which they defend the cup and the world's championship. An outburst by Howie Morenz in the second period paved the way for two goals that gave Chicago the lead to which it added two more in the third period.

Morenz Sets Up Goals.

Two charges by Morenz enabled Johnny Gottselig and Mushy March to score after the rough first period had ended 1 to 1. Paul Thompson, Donnie McFadyen, and Lou Trudell were the other Chicago goal getters, While Earl Seibert and Bert Connolly scored for New York.

Couture and Thompson opened the game with a rush during which Kerr lost his stick batting away the first shot and had to grab Couture's backhand shot with his hands. A moment later Thompson scored alone in a flashy play that started near his own net. He split Seibert and Starr neatly, rushed in unhampered to feint Kerr out and flip the puck home from the right in 2:40.

Coulter Gets Mad.

At the ten minute mark Coulter was thumbed off for tripping Keeling and ten minutes were added for misconduct when he slammed his stick on the ice in protest to Referee Rodden.

Seibert tied the score on a quick thrust in 16:30. He grabbed the puck at his own blue line, went down the center through the defense, and hoisted a hard shot over Chabot's leg as the goalie sprawled out in a vain effort to save.

Both teams started the second period short handed. Thompson fired one from outside the penalty circle just as the penalties ended. The puck hit Kerr's skates, slid between them and stopped only an inch outside the net.

Hawks Take Lead.

The Cook-Boucher line made a valiant effort to crack the defense, but it was Morenz who finally turned the trick. He took the puck down the center, almost to the goal mouth, and when Bun Cook finally succeeded in tying him up, he passed to Gottselig, who slapped it home in 13:28.

A few seconds later the Hawks scored again when Morenz and Gottselig lured Kerr far out in front of his cage and flattened him. Bun Cook tried to hold the fort until the goalie got back, but March picked up the puck and slammed it past him.

The Rangers finally scored in the final minute when Mason passed out from behind the net and Connolly drove the puck home while Chabot was guarding the other side of the net.

The Hawks assumed a defensive attitude at the start of the third period and moved up their first line of defense to confine the action to the center zone. The Ranger third line ran into a series of offsides, which, with Chicago's defensive tactics, made play slow.

Hawks Break Loose.

The Rangers then tried four forwards in an effort to even the count, but the Hawks broke loose to score on an odd play. Thompson picked up the puck when Heller tried to send it from behind the cage. His effort failed, but MacFadyen drove the scoring shot out of a scrimmage, with Romnes drawing the assist.

The Hawks brought the score to 5 to 2 less than three minutes before the finish when Trudell and Cook caught the Rangers down the ice and the former scored from close in after neatly feinting Kerr out of position.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Twenty-eight bicycle riders—the heroes of the bike conscious world—jumped into their saddles at the Chicago Stadium last night and started wheeling around the pine saucer bowl in Chicago's 33d International six day race.

Whatever happens—rain, snow, spring, inflation or what have you—most of them still will be pedaling their way round the same saucer bowl as midnight nears next Saturday. The only thing uncertain this morning is —who's going to be in front then.

The Crowd Whoops It Up.

While this piece is being written, four hours after the long trip to nowhere in particular started, the shrieks of 17,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever watched the bikers push down on their pedals in Chicago, whopped it up for Tony Schaller and Ernest Buhler, the pair listed in the entries as the American-Switzerland team.

Schaller is a former clerk at Marshall Field's store in Chicago, and Buhler is a young fellow who quit making watches—time pieces—when he discovered he could put more money into his pocket by riding a bicycle.

The record smashing crowd received all the thrills it bargained for during the first two hours, when 51 laps were gained. That, too, is another record as far as Chicago six day bike racing is concerned.

There were three spills. Tino Reboli, Newark, paired with Bobby Thomas, Chicago, was the first to go tumbling down the pine bowl. He was up instantly and no damage was done. Next came two spectacular spills in which Jules Audy, Montreal, went sliding down along the pine boards into the infield pit.

No Damage Is Done.

He wasn't hurt, either, for when the sprints started at 9:30 o'clock this blond haired Canadian boy showed the greatest cycling ability of his career and won the first two and was second in the third.

The undisputed lead of Schaller and Buhler did not last long. Shortly after midnight Reboli and Thomas gained a lap and thus pedaled their way into a tie for first place. A lap behind were Freddie Spencer, New Jersey, and Eddie Testa, Los Angeles. Old Reggie McNamara and his partner, Dave Lands, Alfred Letourner, and Franco Georgetti, the French-Italian team, also were right on their heels.

The crowd, which packed every seating space in the great west side sports palace, startled the promoters. They had hardly expected such a gathering, despite the fact that it was St. Patrick's day.

Waldorf Starts Sprints.

Kay Kyser, band leader, fired the gun which sent the field away and a few minutes later Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern university football coach, pulled the trigger on another pistol and the first sprints were under way.

Results of the 1 o'clock sprints this morning follow:

1—Lipsett, Carpus, Wissel, Ehmer.
2—Buhler, Seres, Lands, Reboli.
3—McNamara, Grimm, Letourner, Thomas.
4—Rodman, Georgetti, Lands, Peden.
5—Grimm, Schaller, Ehmer, Wissel.
6—Peden, Georgetti, Garrison, Seres.
7—Thomas, Ehmer, Schaller, Yates.
8—Walthour, Croley, Deulberg, Krosmeier.
9—Schaller, Ehmer, Yates, Testa.
10—Buhler, Lands, Spencer, Garrison.

Wonderbolts Win from Curry, 1-0, in Cup Soccer

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 17.—(AP)—The crack Wieboldt Wonderbolts of Chicago today defeated the Curry soccer team in national challenge cup competition, 1 to 0, in a whirlwind game that went two extra periods.

The Chicago goal came after Elisa, Pittsburgh goalie, who had played a stellar game all afternoon, was drawn out of position. Cuthberts long kick hit the top bar of the goal and bounded to the field. Bozo Scott then slammed the ball into the net for the only score of the day.

The Chicagoans bombarded the Curry goal, particularly in the early minutes of play.

MACCABEES WIN, 4-0.

The Maccabee soccer team yesterday whipped the Hungarians, 4 to 0, to retain first place in the National Professional league. The contest, one of two league games, was played at Kuppenheimer stadium. O'Donnell scored twice for the winners, while Berrman and Waldron each contributed a goal.

Sparta and the Lawndale Rangers met in the other National league game at Sparta stadium, with Sparta scoring an easy 5 to 0 triumph.

In an interleague game at 47th street and Kilpatrick avenue, the Italian A. C. won a hard fought battle from Olympia, 3 to 2. Armour won from Hakoah, 4 to 1; Ravenswood beat Indiana Harbor, 2 to 0, and Calumet triumphed over the MacDuffs, 2 to 1, in major league games played yesterday.

OPERATE AGAIN ON SULLIVAN, IRISH CAPTAIN

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Joseph Sullivan, Captain-elect of the Notre Dame football team, underwent a third operation today for a mastoid condition. Immediately afterward he was given a blood transfusion, the fourth since the beginning of his illness several weeks ago. Although his condition is still grave it was said Sullivan was in no immediate danger.

The operation today was performed by Dr. Joseph E. King after a turn for the worse had indicated a possible abcessed condition. No abscess was found, it was reported.

GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTERS TRADE PUNCHES TODAY

Lorenzo Pack, Champion Heavyweight, to Arrive.

Most of the members of the Chicago Golden Gloves team, which ers in the annual intercity bouts at Chicago Stadium March 29, were within easy reach of their division weight before they opened training yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. So the scheduled boxing drills were postponed until this afternoon by Head Coach Johnny Behr.

Thus the boys, although raring to box, were forced to be content with loosening up exercises again. The coaches put each through eight rounds of floor work, bag punching, shadow boxing, rope skipping, and calisthenics on the mat.

Pack to Arrive Today.

Billy Borchert, Green Bay, Wis., welterweight alternate, was the only one of the fighters already quartered at the I. A. C. who didn't work yesterday. Lorenzo Pack, Detroit heavyweight champion, will check in at the club today in time to take a light workout. The other missing heavyweight, Paul Hartnek of Omaha, will arrive Saturday.

The fighters will open today's schedule at 7 o'clock this morning by doing three miles' roadwork in Grant park. After breakfast the schedule provides for several hours' rest. The boxing session will start at 2:30 with boys of the lighter weights in action.

Plenty of Action Here.

Patsy Urso, Detroit, flyweight titleholder, is to spar two rounds. So are Jesse Levels, 112 pound runner-up, and Jimmy Urso, Grand Rapids, Mich., alternate, who is Patsy's elder brother. Johnny Brown, Catholic Youth organization, who won the bantamweight crown from Troy Bellini, Cleveland, will fight a couple of rounds against Bellini. And so on down the line the action will continue in the lightweight classes until 3:30, when the heavier warriors will step into the spotlight.

King Wyatt, the Fort Wayne welterweight king, will go one or two rounds with Bill Borchert. Otis Thomas, 200 pound Chicago heavyweight, will have to do his boxing with two of the light heavyweight color bearers, Herman West, Centralia, Ill., and Clint Bridges, Detroit.

Coach Behr expressed the opinion the current squad is in better condition right now than any of the intercity teams of previous years. He pointed out that in addition to being close to weight none of the assembled gladiators carries cuts, bruises or injuries of any kind.

HINES AND TAILER WIN PRO-AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY

St. Augustine, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Jimmy Hines and Tommy Tailer of New York today won the national amateur-professional four ball golf tournament, defeating Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., and Mike Parco of Buffalo, 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final round.

One down at the end of the first 18 holes, the winners went into the lead on the 31st and reached the 35th tee one up.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—The White Sox licked the Cubs again this afternoon, 9 to 8, to sweep the two game California instalment of the 1935 spring series.

The Sox, a bit smug because of yesterday's easy 5 to 0 triumph, and a 6 to 0 edge they possessed after four innings today, got a few buzzsaw thrills when Gabby Hartnett slapped a homer off George Earnshaw with two on base and none out in the fifth, and when the Cubs backed it up with a five run rally which tied the score at 8 all in the seventh. The Sox, however, cooled off, and while Vernon Kennedy tamed the Cubs in the last two innings they crowded over an eighth inning run good for the decision.

Bonura Smacks Four.

Bud Hafey and Luke Sewell were the heroes in the final analysis, for they produced the victory marker. Hafey doubled, and with two out Sewell singled him home. There were earlier heroes, not the least of whom was Zeke Bonura, who doubled in the first and followed up with three singles. All of Zeke's hits, except one single, figured heavily in the scoring.

Each team used four pitchers, and of the eight Les Tietje and Kennedy were good.

Sox Start Early.

After Radcliff had accomplished all three putouts in the first half of the opening inning, the Sox got themselves the first run of the game. Hayes wheedled Bryant out of a pass and moved up on Radcliff's sacrifice. Simmons filed to Demaree, but Bonura socked a double off the left field wall, scoring Hayes.

Then the Sox grabbed themselves another run in their half of the second before they were halted by a double play. Dykes opened with a double off the wall in deep left center. Sewell filed to Galan, but Tietje lined a single to right center, scoring Dykes. Hayes singled to center. Tietje stopping at second. Radcliff then hit into a double play, English to Jurges to Grimm.

A Bunch of Jugglers?

The Sox' third was rather horrible from the Cub point of view. Simmons teed off with a double to the center field flagpole. Al started to pull up at third on Bonura's single to left, but proceeded on home when Galan overran the ball. Hafey walked and he and Zeke moved up on Appling's sacrifice. Dykes walked, filling the bases, whereupon Bryant was relieved by Casey. Sewell was safe on Jurges' fumble, Bonura scoring and the bases remaining loaded. Haas batted for

Young John Roosevelt a Star in Polo

Cambridge, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—The polo lessons that John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, studied in a Whitefield, N. H., training school two summers ago seem to have stood him in good stead during the present indoor campaign.

Last night this 6 foot 4 youngster rode for his Harvard freshman polo numerals against the Yale team, a game that ended in a 13 to 3 victory for the Crimson, to which 19 year old John contributed two goals.

A product of Groton school, like his famous father and brothers, John knew little or nothing about polo until he enrolled at the school conducted by Lyle M. Phillips, who coaches the game at Phillips academy in Andover.

Is Apt Pupil.

That was during the summer of 1933, the year before John was graduated from Groton. While studying polo at the Phillips ranch he earned his tuition and keep by grooming the string of polo ponies and acting as a general handy man for about six weeks.

Phillips taught him the strokes, rules, and tactics of the game. Evidently young John was an apt pupil, for he had little or no difficulty making the Harvard freshman team when he reported to Lieut. Charles Palmer, coach of all the Crimson polo teams, last December.

Coach Palmer described the youngest Roosevelt as a hard rider who commits but few fouls and a good scorer. In one game he ran up a total of six goals. He did, however, lack the experience and backgrounds of his two Harvard teammates, F. Skiddy von Stade, one of the outstanding Meadowbrook juniors, and Lawrence Davis of Cincinnati, brother of Tom Davis, captain of this year's Harvard varsity trio.

Franklin Likes Rowing.

John's only other game is squash racquets, which he plays more for exercise than competition. He also enjoys sculling but so far has shown but little interest in competitive rowing, favorite sport of his brother, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

The latter, now a member of Coach Charlie Whiteside's varsity crew squad, works out on the Charles river daily. For the present he has been assigned the No. 2 slide in the third varsity eight, but he will likely wind up the season in the junior varsity shell. Last year Franklin was a member of the Crimson's freshman crew that lost to Yale.

Franklin, whose recent initiation into the famous Fly club was important enough to bring his father from Washington to Cambridge, played football at Groton. When he entered Harvard, however, he found that his studies would permit him to take up but one sport and he selected rowing.

BRAVES WIN FROM YANKEES, 9 TO 4; RUTH SCORES TWO

Giants Pound Dizzy Dean; Beat Cardinals, 10-2.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Babe Ruth made one timely hit and scored two runs against his former teammates today as the Boston Braves trounced the New York Yankees, 9 to 4, in their second exhibition clash.

Ruth smacked Russell Van Atta's delivery for a single after Bill Urbanski had walked. They both scored when a hit by Wally Berger, a force-out, a walk, and a single by Les Mallon completed a three run rally. In the second Ruth forced Frankhouse at the plate when he came up with the bases full, but went on to score in another three run attack.

Jesse Hill led the Yankee hitters with a double and a homer. Score:

Boston [N].....	330	102	000	9	12	0
New York [A].....	000	110	002	4	10	0

Batteries—Frankhouse, Rhem, and Hogan; Van Atta, Murphy, Tamulis, and Ries.

GIANTS GET REVENGE.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—The Giants got even with Dizzy Dean for yesterday's pinch hit when they smacked him for seven runs in the second inning and a 10 to 2 victory over the Cardinals today.

Singles by Weintraub and Terry started the big inning. Jackson walked, then Davis, Mancuso, Critz, and Bartell hit singles and Hank Leiber finished off with a double. The other three runs were scored off Bill Hallahan in the sixth. Score:

St. Louis [N].....	100	000	010	2	5	5
New York [N].....	070	003	00*	10	12	0

Batteries—J. Dean, Hallahan, Kleinke, and Delancey, V. Davis; Fitzsimmons, Charnon, Smith and Mancuso, Danning.

DODGERS, 10; PHILLIES, 5.

Orlando, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers hit hard and often today to defeat the Phillies, 10 to 5, in an exhibition game.

After building up a 3 to 1 lead in the first three innings against Orville Jorgens' pitching, they went to work on Jim Bivins, another rookie, in the fourth and clinched the game with four more runs. Len Koenecke provided the day's best swat, a home run inside the park in the third. Score:

Philadelphia [N].....	010	102	010	5	9	1
Brooklyn [N].....	021	402	10*	10	12	4

Batteries—Jorgens, Bivins, Bowman, and Todd, Jonnard; Leonard, Benge, and Phelps, Onis.

BROWNS, 7; ORIOLES, 6.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby and the St. Louis Browns had luck with them to defeat the Baltimore Orioles, 7 to 6, in an exhibition game today. Six hits were all the Browns could register, but they were aided by the wildness of Oriole hurlers, who turned in ten bases on balls, a hit batsman and three wild pitches. Score:

TIGERS, 9; REDS, 6.

Tampa, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Pounding Paul Derringer and Danny MacFayden for 18 hits, the Detroit Tigers won the first of a series of training games from the Cincinnati Reds today, 9 to 6.

A three run lead taken early by the Reds failed to hold up.

The Reds did their best for a comeback, staging a three run rally in the ninth, off Tommy Bridges. Schoolboy Rowe was on the mound for the Tigers as the game opened.

Manager Charlie Dressen yanked his kid infield in the fifth. Score:

Cincinnati.....	013	000	003	6	10	2
Detroit.....	000	120	42*	9	18	4

Batteries—Johnson, Derringer, MacFayden, Campbell and Erickson; Rowe and Bridges, Hayworth.

RED SOX, 3; ATHLETICS, 0.

Sarasota, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Held to four hits by Dusty Rhodes and their old pal, Rube Walberg, the Athletics were defeated in an exhibition game today by the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 0.

So completely were the Mackmen baffled in their turns at the bat that only one—Jimmy Foxx—reached second base. Caster, Wilshere, and Mahaffey divided the pitching duty for the Athletics, yielding eight safeties, all of which were singles. Score:

Philadelphia [A.].....	000	000	000	0	4	1
Boston [A.].....	110	001	00*	3	8	0

Batteries—Caster, Wilshere, Mahaffey and Foxx, Berry; Rhodes, Walberg and Ferrell.

Cubs to Battle at Sacramento This Afternoon

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—The Cubs hustled out of here tonight for a week's visit in the San Francisco district and the Sox will ride a bus to and from Ventura, Cal., tomorrow for an exhibition against the Portland Coast league team, which is training there. Tomorrow's program for the Cubs provides for an exhibition at Sacramento. They also play at Sacramento the following day.

Charley Root, veteran of the Cub staf, will share tomorrow's pitching chores at Sacramento with Roy Henshaw, the southpaw. There are rumors that Root, unless he shows exceptional form before the season opens, will be released to a Coast league club, but there's not much chance for that. In the first place, Root probably couldn't be waived from the majors. In the second place, Grimm, after his reckless trading of pitchers during the winter, can't afford to take any chances.

Billy Herman, the Cubs' regular second baseman who remained at the Catalina Island camp after the squad departed, has shaken off his attack of grippe and rejoined his mates. He accompanied the squad to Sacramento tonight.

After Al Simmons had doubled in the third inning today he was excused from further work. He had to dash to the depot to meet Mrs. Simmons, who arrived from Chicago.

Dykes is going to give some of his second class pitching rookies a chance at Ventura tomorrow. Johnny Michaels, a southpaw from the Rochester club, will start. Glen Gabler, an unemployed ex-Coast leaguer who invited himself into the Sox camp, also will be given a workout.

Dykes withdrew himself from the front line trench today after some skin had been removed from the fingers of his right hand as the result of a collision with one of Kowalik's wide pitches.

President Lou Comiskey, who is one half of the official White Sox family, departed tonight for Chicago. He expects to enter a hospital there for treatment of his right knee, injured in an automobile smashup in New York last December. A limited portion of the Cubs' official family, made up of President P. K. Wrigley, Vice President John Seys, Business Manager Charles Weber, and Press Agent Charles Drake, will start for Chicago Thursday.

The Sox were on Umpire Beans Reardon, the National leaguer, all afternoon. He cost them one run in the sixth when O'Dea missed the runner by a foot. In the eighth he called Marty Hopkins out on a bad third strike. Dykes raised a big rumpus about this. On another play the Sox forced Reardon to reverse his decision.

Sox Win, 9-8; Sweep Series Against Cubs

Tietje and forced Sewell, Hafey scoring. When English made a bad throw trying to complete a double play Dykes also tallied. Grimm finally knocked down Hayes' liner and recovered for the putout.

Earnshaw took over the pitching job in the fourth and got Klein, Demaree and Grimm out in order.

Gabby Busts One.

Going into the fifth the Sox were leading, 6 to 0. The Sox bench was hilarious, the Cubs' dismal. But in the fifth inning things livened up for the National leaguers. Earnshaw walked Hack and Stan went to third on Jurges' single to center. Then Hartnett knocked his homer over the left field wall and the score was Sox, 6; Cubs, 3. Earnshaw managed to finish the inning with no more damage than a single by English. Then Big George retired for the day.

Next production was in the Sox's sixth when a dubious double play snuffed them out. Radcliff reached second on Cavarretta's poor toss to Kowalik on first and moved up on Wyatt's sacrifice. Bonura came through with his hit No. 4, scoring Radcliff. Bonura reached second and Hafey was safe on Jurges' second and the Cubs' fifth error. Appling then singled to center, scoring Bonura and putting Hafey on third. Dykes was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. He had to withdraw from the game, Hopkins taking his place. Galan made a fine catch of Sewell's drive. Hafey tried to score after the catch, but was doubled at the plate on a relay, Galan to Hack to O'Dea, according to the view of Umpire Beans Reardon, engaged today to work in the remainder of the Cubs' western exhibition games. The Reardon version brought lusty squawks with the usual results.

Same Old Whit.

Then came the big riot in the seventh in which the Cubs knocked out Whit Wyatt and tied the score, the fifth run being due to a butterfinger fumble by Hopkins of a perfect throw by Appling. The Cub riot included singles by Jurges and O'Dea, a walk to Galan which filled the bases, a single by English, a double by Klein, the Hopkins error, after Kennedy had relieved Wyatt, and a single by Cavarretta.

The Sox scored the winning run in the eighth in this manner: Hafey slammed one of Joiner's pitches for a double off the left field wall. Appling sacrificed, but Hopkins, after failing in an attempted squeeze play, struck out. Sewell got his first White Sox hit, a single to center, and Hafey sprinted home with the winning run.

WILLIMAN WINS IN MIDGET AUTO RACING WINDUP

Tony Williman, Milwaukee pilot, came from far behind to beat Tudy Marchese in the main midget auto event of 20 laps at the 124th Field Artillery armory before another overflow crowd of 7,500 fans.

Williman, off in seventh position, was far behind soon after the race had begun and Pat Warren took the lead. He was closely followed by Tetterton and Marchese. They held these positions for 5 laps.

On the sixth lap Williman started to move up fast while Warren was doing his best to keep ahead of Marchese. After a few more laps Williman moved up on even terms with Warren. At the 20th lap Marchese made his move. The three cars were bunched for the lead, but Williman did some maneuvering to get to the front and win by four lengths.

In the class A semi-final Jimmy Snyder beat out Warren and Marchese in a close battle.

2 CHICAGO TRIOS FACE CLEVELAND IN POLO TOURNEY

Two Chicago teams will oppose the Cleveland Riding club's high goal trio in the western section of the national indoor polo tournament, it was announced yesterday. The title tourney will start March 27 at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Like Cleveland, both of the Chicago teams will carry a 13 goal rating, thereby qualifying for the senior division. One will be headed by Capt. Maxwell Corpening, the other by Herb Lorber.

Capt. Corpening, who rates 5 goals, announced his mates will probably be Lieut. Larry Smith, 5 goals, and Jim Hannah, 3 goals.

Lining up with Lorber, a 4 goal player, will be Bill Nicholls, highest rated player in the west at 6 goals, and Lieut. Steve Hammond, 3 goals.

Because of the size of the field, advance eliminations will be required. It is planned to restrict the tournament to semi-final and final matches.

Other nights of play besides the opening date are set for March 30, April 3 and April 6. If necessary three games will be played each evening.

LOYOLA K. OF C. QUINTET BEATS DAMEN, 27 TO 26

Winner Takes 1st Place in Upper Bracket.

Egan's free throw with ten seconds to play gave Loyola-Hyde Park a 27 to 26 victory over Damen at White City yesterday in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league. The point nullified a great rally by the west side team, which trailed at the half, 13 to 5. The victory gave Loyola-Hyde Park first place in the upper bracket.

HUNT FOR HEIRS AFTER FINDING $500,000 BONDS

Find Securities Scattered About House.

Florence, Kas., March 17.—(AP)—County authorities sought a claimant today for the estate of Miss Ellen Doyle, tall, dark eyed, oil wealthy spinster who left $5,350 in cash and approximately $500,000 in bonds scattered about her farm house of the drawn blinds.

Known about the countryside for her humor, eccentricities, and philanthropy, she died Tuesday, the last of her immediate family, on the tract her father, Patrick Doyle, homesteaded in the '50s.

Probate Judge J. E. Hargett said no will had been found. In the absence of a will and claimants, the estate—including coffee can currency, the bonds and derrick-marked farm—would revert to the state of Kansas.

Leroy Ramsey, oil operator and neighbor who drilled 13 producing wells on the Doyle land between 1920 and 1928, said Miss Doyle and her sister, Mary, kept window shades down to discourage callers they did not wish to see.

"They told with great amusement," he said, "of hearing themselves referred to as 'darned old maids.'"

Ellen Doyle gave money for many purposes, but asked secrecy of the beneficiaries. The day before her death she authorized the gift of a load of oats to a farmer of the neighborhood.

NAB MOONSHINER AFTER OFFICER ON TRAIL SLAIN

Leesburgh, Va., March 17.—(AP)—Thomas Quisenberry, bearded mountaineer moonshiner sought for the killing of a federal agent, was captured near here late today by Federal Agent S. C. Burgess and State Police Officer Bayliss.

Quisenberry was found hiding in a ditch within a mile of the spot where the fatal wounding of Clarence J. McClaray, Alexandria policeman, occurred earlier today. He was armed with a rifle and a revolver, officers said, but offered no resistance when they covered him with their own weapons and called on him to surrender.

Quisenberry admitted, they said, that he was an escaped convict from Wisconsin and that he had killed three men.

The capture concluded an intensive hunt for the man suspected of wounding George Kirkpatrick of Fairfax, a federal agent, Saturday.

Officers asked Quisenberry how far he was from McClary when he opened fire. "Old Tom" estimated the distance at 600 yards.

"That's some shooting," one of the officers commented.

"I never missed anything I ever shot at in my life," he answered.

ESSAY CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED IN HEALTH DRIVE

An essay contest to stimulate interest in the "early diagnosis" campaign, sponsored by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute and affiliated health centers throughout Cook county, will be conducted in all the public and private schools of the county during the month of April, the period of the campaign.

More than 100 schools have been invited to participate in the contest. Many schools have signified their intention of competing in the contest and have made the writing of the essays part of class assignments.

The contest is open to eighth grade students and the essays must be written during regular class periods designated by the teacher. The subject selected is "How to Build Good Health to Prevent Tuberculosis," and the essay must not exceed 300 words.

Students desiring literature on the campaign or on the subject of tuberculosis can obtain it from the institute's health centers or directly from the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, 360 North Michigan avenue.

MISS PERKINS SAYS U. S. LAGS ON SOCIAL ACTS

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The United States has lagged 25 years behind most of Europe in providing security for the mass of its people, says Secretary of Labor Perkins, and has suddenly found itself "the only large industrial country without adequate social security legislation."

Miss Perkins, writing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, declares "there can be little weight to the argument that the United States cannot afford to adopt social insurance, when so many other countries much poorer than she maintain such comprehensive systems."

The depression demonstrated that high wages and economic security are not synonymous, Miss Perkins says, but many Americans still do not realize that European workers have suffered less severely than American workers.

Miss Perkins attributed America's backwardness in the matter to the abundance of work available in a young and developing country and to the fact that until recently American employers did not realize the advantages of stabilizing production and preventing social unrest by assuring workers a decent living in both good times and bad.

EVANSTON WOMAN KILLED IN USING MATCH FOR LIGHT

Mrs. Hortense Davis, 38 years old, wife of Richard T. Davis, architect and real estate operator, was fatally burned yesterday morning. Apparently clothing caught fire while she was rummaging by the light of a match in a trunk in the attic of her home at 1246 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Davis' cries brought her husband and her nurse, Miss Edna Schmidt, who had been attending her since Wednesday when she was injured in a fall. They found the attic and her clothing in flames, but carried her out and extinguished the burning clothing. She died in the Evanston hospital three hours later. The fire did little damage to the attic.

Mrs. Davis is survived by her husband and two children by a former marriage, Mary Jane Sothness, 17 years old, and Ralph Sothness, a law student at Dartmouth university.

Mr. Davis owns a real estate business at 5252 Broadway, Chicago.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Between rounds of the Johnson-Long-Coughlin fracas another lively feud is flaring again between George Givot, "the Grik ambassador," and Harry Einstein, "Parkyakakas" of Eddie Cantor's program. The Parkyakakas fight is not a new one, but it's hot again because Givot has gone back on the air on the so-called "Big Show," headlining Gertrude Niesen. Givot used the term Parkyakakas on the stage and in radio occasionally when Einstein was a material writer for him. But Einstein claims it as his own and has had it registered as such.

Givot insists there is no feud.

"I wish Einstein luck," Givot is reported to have said, "I wish he would get a lot better. A lot of people think that's me on the air and they think I'm slipping. I used to know Einstein when he was a furniture man up in Boston. He used to watch me and that's how he learned all his tricks."

Einstein's version differs somewhat: "I went on the air with Greek dialect because I had been writing Greek scripts for Givot and never got paid for them."

Einstein learned the Greek dialect as a youngster in his father's office. He was an importer and did business with a lot of Greeks. And Einstein maintains that he has been using the Parkyakakas for many years. As an advertising executive he used to greet visitors, "Sit down and park your carcass." Hence the Parkyakakas. He added that he even has letters from Givot addressed to him as Parkyakakas. Last fall Einstein told us that he had been spending a lot of money to secure injunctions restraining Givot from using the monicker on the air and that he thought that he had him finally licked. Givot doesn't use it on the air now, but still falls back on it in theaters, it's said.

Ruth Lyon, soprano; Charles Sears, tenor, and Frank Westphal's orchestra will combine their talents in a new half hour variety show, sponsored by the C. & N. W. road, at 8:30 tomorrow night on WENR. Harvey Hays will talk about western vacation regions. . . . Art Wright, who sings with Kay Kyser's orchestra on W-G-N, becomes the featured soloist on the NBC Betty Marlowe program, beginning at 3:45 tomorrow afternoon.

IMPORTS CAUSE SLUMP IN RYE; SURPLUS FEARED

Other Grains Close to Season's Lows.

While speculative activity in rye is small, the cereal is currently occupying the spotlight in grain markets and for the last week or more has stolen the show. With all grains moving down around the lowest levels of the season, rye has dropped much farther and is now close to minimum levels established during 1934.

Reasons advanced by trade experts are summed up in liberal imports of Polish and Argentine rye, together with a belief that the United States may have a large surplus of the grain at the end of the crop year. Futures last week on the Chicago Board of Trade lost from 4⅝ to 6½ cents a bushel. Other coarse grains, similarly affected by import fears, dropped sharply, corn losing nearly 4 cents and oats more than 4 cents.

Smaller Decline In Wheat.

In the meantime new crop wheat futures eased only 1½ cents despite severe duststorms over much of the wheat belt and a continuance of dry weather in drouth areas. May wheat, however, declined 3⅜ cents.

All deliveries of rye are now below 60 cents a bushel, or less than 1 cent a pound. Rye is decidedly cheaper than other grains, but some observers predict May rye will sell 40 cents below May wheat, which closed Saturday at 92⅛ cents.

Because of persistent imports of rye, domestic supplies have decreased at a slow pace. Visible supplies last week totaled 10,325,000 bushels. Conversely, it is said that domestic new crop rye production may be well in excess of the extremely small output which marked the last two years.

Cotton Slump Affects Grains.

Panicky liquidation in cotton last week proved extremely disturbing to all grains. Sharp recessions followed Monday's break in cotton and the nervousness which continued prevented proces from staging a comeback. Marketwise, the chief feature of the setback in wheat was a closer readjustment to world prices, as British and continental markets moved higher despite the drop here.

Commercial demand for milling wheat and flour has been disappointing even though a slight improvement was shown on the decline. Continental buyers seem to be indifferent about obtaining supplies. British millers bought liberal quantities of wheat in Argentina and a moderate amount in Canada, but the totals indicate no apprehension was entertained about the future, despite the fact that Australia and Argentina are shipping large quantities of wheat to the Orient.

Range of Prices for Week.

The range of principal futures on the Chicago Board of Trade last week follows:

			Close—
Wheat—	High.	Low.	March 15.	March 9.
May	$ .95	$ .91⅛	$ .92⅛	$ .95⅛
July	.90¼	.87⅞	.89	.90½
Sept.	.90¼	.87⅞	.89	.90½

Season's range—May, $1.17 to 91⅛ cents; July, $1.00 to 86⅛ cents; September, 92⅜ to 84⅜ cents.

Corn—
May	.80⅜	.77⅜	.77⅜	.81
July	.76⅞	.73⅜	.73⅜	.77¼
Sept.	.74½	.70⅜	.70⅞	.74⅜

Season's range—May, 93¼ to 75 cents; July, 90½ to 73⅜ cents; September, 84⅝ to 70⅜ cents.

Oats—
May	.48¼	.43½	.43⅜	.48½
July	.42	.38	.38	.42¼
Sept.	.39¼	.36⅜	.36⅝	.40⅝

Season's range—May, 59⅛ to 43½ cents; July, 53 to 38 cents; September, 44¼ to 36⅝ cents.

Rye—
May	.62⅜	.56	.56½	.62⅜
July	.63⅛	.57	.57½	.63⅛
Sept.	.63⅜	.58½	.59	.63⅜

Season's range—May, 95⅜ to 56 cents; July, 80½ to 57 cents; September, 76½ to 58½ cents.

Importations and restricted buying interest deter the action of corn and oats.

C., starting April 30. They are: John D. Black, A. R. Bone, C. C. Coldren, William M. Ellis, Martin H. Kennelly, B. J. Mullaney, Robert C. Ross, William P. Sidley, C. D. Southard, and Mr. Young.

Brunswick-Balke Sales Gain for 1934

The Brunswick-Balke-Collender company enjoyed a 34 per cent increase in sales during 1934 and nearly halved its net loss of the preceding year, President R. F. Bensinger announced yesterday in the annual report to stockholders.

Last year's deficit was $353,726, compared with a loss of $675,444 for 1933. Consolidated net sales were $5,390,973, against $4,009,219 for the preceding year. Of the $1,381,754 increase, $738,961 was accounted for by the billiard and bowling division and $642,793 by the fixture division. Gross profit on sales was $1,701,466. Depreciation charges cut the figure to $1,582,758. Miscellaneous income boosted the total to $1,956,574. Selling, general, and administrative expenses and interest aggregating $2,310,300 left the $353,726 deficit.

Calls Sales Gain Encouraging.

"In view of the fact that recreation establishments are still operating under a severe handicap due to continued disturbed business conditions," said Mr. Bensinger, "and as such will be the last to feel recovery from depression, the increase of sales in the billiard and bowling division at this time should be an encouraging indication of the future.

"Although the sales of the fixture division also show a substantial increase, potential volume is still seriously curtailed, due to unreasonable legislation in some states for the regulation and control of the liquor business.

Financial Position Strong.

Mr. Bensinger declared the company to be in strong financial condition, citing current assets of $6,685,122 against current liabilities of $245,852—a ratio of 27 to 1. Current assets of $175,000 in foreign countries are not considered because of varying exchange rates. In addition, the company holds at $350,360, or $190 per $1,000, debentures of Warner Brothers, which on last Dec. 31 had a market value of $1,087,960.

The retirement and cancelation of 5,000 shares of preferred stock resulted in a credit of $176,101 to capital surplus, which stood at $2,456,358, compared with $2,278,549 at the end of 1933. Against this are deficits of $1,061,570.

W. T. GRANT CO. REPORTS PROFIT OF $2.18 SHARE

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Net earnings of the W. T. Grant company in the year ended on Jan. 31, were $2,616,202 after deductions for interest, depreciation, amortization of leasehold improvement, provision for federal income tax and other charges. This equals $2.18 a share on 1,195,355 shares of capital stock outstanding. In the previous year earnings totaled $3,347,175, or $2.80 a share. Sales in the last year were $85,069,612, against $78,206,119 in the preceding year.

On Jan. 31 last, the balance sheet showed current assets of $18,009,733, compared with current liabilities of $2,440,157. The excess of current assets over current liabilities was $15,569,576, an increase in working capital of $1,584,719 in the year. Cash was $7,364,070, against $7,151,095. The increase of $1,412,135 in merchandise inventories was in anticipation of greater volume in the early spring.

At the end of the year the company was operating 465 stores, eight of which were opened in 1934.

Milwaukee Road to Start Freight Pickup Service

The arrangement is by way of further experiment to provide service by the railroad that will afford all the conveniences now offered by motor truck freight lines handling merchandise trafic, according to Mr. Finegan.

All principal Baltimore & Ohio trains will be completely air-conditioned by the time summer arrives, W. G. Brown, passenger trafic manager, announced yesterday. In carrying out the program work is now in progress on eighty cars in the company and Pullman shops.

BELGIAN THREAT TO GOLD GROUP SEEN AVERTED

Hymans Says 'Belga Is Saved.'

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 17.—"The belga is saved."

With this optimistic but cryptic statement from Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Hymans, the Belgian financial pulmotor squad, headed by Premier George Theunis, left for Brussels this evening, indicating that the threat that Belgium would go off the gold standard has been averted for the time being.

The Belgian ministers spent the day conferring at the official residence of the French premier. Among those present were Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, Foreign Minister Louis Germain-Martin, Minister of Commerce Paul Marchandeau, Jean Tannery, governor of the Bank of France, and various financial and economic experts. The only interruption was for lunch at the Belgian ministry.

Coöperate to Save Belga.

Following the conference, a communique was issued which speaks of the Belgians' determination to maintain the value of the belga and the determination of both countries to cooperate with the rest of the gold bloc in upholding the gold standard. In somewhat vaguer terms, the communique expresses the desire of France to relieve Belgium's economic distress by opening up its markets to Belgian products as far as possible.

Information received by THE TRIBUNE from reliable sources removes a great deal of importance from the Franco-Belgian communique. The reason Hymans was able to say the belga was saved is that the Bank of France promised technical support to aid the Belgian National bank in staging a counter offensive against the bears who have been hammering away at the belga.

Currency Reserves Exhausted.

In defending the currency, the Belgian bank has virtually exhausted its foreign currency reserves and hence forth could only assure support for the belga by sacrificing its gold reserves. By today's agreement the Belgians obtain not an official loan, but bank credit—presumably in foreign currency—which they will be able to utilize like the British and American exchange equalization funds to keep the belga steady.

With this ammunition it is believed the Belgian bank can send the bears scurrying for cover, more so as the short position against the belga is somewhat excessive.

This accord, while it will help the Belgians pull through the immediate crisis, admittedly is only technical and temporary in character. Despite the vague promises in the communique it is not believed that France can offer Belgium enough help to relieve the fundamental economic malady, which is back of the belga's crisis. It is true that there is some serious discussion about admitting Belgian industrial products into the French market in return for Belgian purchases of French agricultural products, but it is not believed that this can be done on a very big scale.

Act to Stop Speculation.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 17.—(AP)—Two royal decrees designed to "put a stop" to speculation on Belgian currency were published tonight. The first decree establishes "the office of national exchange" and the second places control of operations in foreign currency under a new system. A semi-official statement said all dealings in gold, whether bar or coin, will be submitted to the control of the national bank "in order to avoid hoarding of gold coin."

Rail Capital Expenditures in 1934 Highest Since 1931

New York, March 17.—The Association of American Railroads announced today that gross capital expenditures made by Class 1 railroads in 1934 were greater than in any year since 1931. Complete reports for the year, which have just been tabulated, show that gross capital expenditures for railway equipment and roadway and structures totaled $212,712,000. In 1933 such expenditures totaled $103,947,000, while in 1932 they were $167,194,000. In 1931, however, they amounted to $361,912,000.

UNION CARBIDE PROFIT FOR 1934 IS $20,277,442

New Products Boost Firm's Profit.

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—The Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported for 1934 a consolidated net income of $20,277,442 after all charges and reserves for depreciation and depletion. This was equal to $2.25 a share on the 9,000,743 shares of capital stock outstanding. It compared with a net income of $14,172,927, or $1.57 a share, in 1933.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31 shows current assets of $74,866,351 and current liabilities of $12,009,815, compared with $70,229,925 and $8,893,575, respectively, at the close of 1933. Cash and marketable securities were $20,410,103, compared with $18,321,023. Inventories amounted to $41,281,042, against $39,094,198. For construction, acquisition of new properties and other capital purchases, the corporation spent $15,770,034 in 1934.

Pushes New Product.

Jesse J. Ricks, president, reported that the increase in the company's earnings last year "was in a large degree the result of the introduction of newer products and the expansion of uses for the older products developed by the corporation's research, development, manufacturing and sales organizations."

"The tabulation of dividends declared by the corporation in the last year," Mr. Ricks added, "discloses that in the five-year period ended with 1929, the so-called boom years, the corporation declared in dividends $80,192,527 and for the five-year period ended with 1934, the period of partial stagnation in industry, it declared $80,100,415."

Will Vote on Fund.

Stockholders will vote on April 16 on a proposal to establish a fund for payment of the corporations' share of the cost of a group insurance plan, on a savings plan and on special compensation for officers and employés in key positions. An amount annually to be determined by the directors, but not above 7½ per cent of the consolidated net income for the preceding year, is to be contributed by the corporation and its subsidiaries.

LOREE ASSAILS MONEY TINKERING OF POLITICIANS

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Creation by congress of a national commission on banking and currency, advocated by the chamber of commerce of the state of New York, was urged yesterday by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad corporation.

Mr. Loree said the present financial situation throughout the world was in reality "a very advanced stage of capitalism under a central dictatorship." He expressed the opinion that business confidence had been affected seriously by "political tinkering with the monetary and banking system." His statement was in the form of a letter to Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the state chamber, commending that body for launching the movement to have congress authorize a scientific, nonpolitical study and reorganization of the banking and currency system.

"We have steadily prostituted the functions of the present federal reserve banking system," Mr. Loree said, "until now the banks are but little more than the 'security affiliate' of the United States treasury, instead of, as intended, serving as repository of the country's banking structure, chiefly holding gold and self-liquidating commercial paper."

CHICAGO TRADE RIDES ON EVEN KEEL; WARM WEATHER AIDS BUYING

There was little change in Chicago business last week compared with the preceding week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Retail trade remained in status quo, although the warm weather of the last few days brought out some early Easter buying.

Wholesale trade centered about silks and cottons, the latter showing their usual Lenten spurt. Advertising featuring national silk week resulted in some good commitments.

In the industrial field there was a slight increase in machinery inquiries. News of important additions contemplated for the local industrial family stirred an optimism based more on future hopes than any tangible evidence of activity at present.

Rents continue to stiffen, especially in the suburbs and the more desirable urban neighborhoods. There were also some indications of impending activity in residential building and remodeling.

NEW YORK HAS $185,354,138 DUE IN REALTY TAXES

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—New York City's uncollected real estate taxes, including assessments, totaled $185,354,138 on Feb. 28, Controler Frank J. Taylor reported today.

Of the total taxes uncollected, $82,818,503 represents the uncollected portion of the 1934 tax levy, and $102,535,634 for 1933 and prior years. The 1934 arrears have $73,090,000 in revenue notes outstanding against them, the controler pointed out, but he had on hand on Feb. 28 $20,484,244 reserved for the payment of the notes, leaving the net debt outstanding against the 1934 levy at $52,605,755.

A summary of the report pointed out that the pledged assets, therefore, exceed the notes by approximately $30,000,000. "This excess," the summary stated, "is largely due to the appropriation in the 1934 budget of approximately $24,000,000 for tax reserves." The appropriation for the 1935 tax reserves was cut to $16,000,000 by the city, after an agreement with the bankers.

The report showed that the city has already borrowed $50,000,000 against the first half of the tax levy for 1935, which is not yet due. That sum, with the notes outstanding against prior tax levies, brings the total of revenue bills and notes outstanding to $193,136,732.

Automobile Production Runs 45 Pct. Ahead of 1934

Production of automobiles and trucks during the first eleven weeks of this year was approximately 45 per cent above the corresponding period of 1934, according to Cram's Reports, Inc. Production last week was 97,090 units, compared with 86,973 in the preceding week. An unusual element of the week's report was that no production declines were reported anywhere in the industry.

Fidelity Mutual Life Business Shows Increase

Sales of new paid-for life insurance of Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia in February increased 42 per cent over January, according to Walter Lemar Talbot, president.

OHIO FIRM PUTS HUGE STEEL MILL IN OPERATION

Rolling Capacity Is 600,000 Tons Year.

Youngstown, O., March 17.—(AP)—Picture a massive steel built machine, four times as tall as a man and a quarter mile long, weighing more than 14,000 tons, and with thousands of moving parts all operating with the precision of a jeweled time piece.

That's what the steel industry's newest mill is like. The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, which owns it, has had it in operation only a few days, but they are already certain it is an industrial marvel.

It cost about $8,000,000 and can roll 600,000 tons of steel a year in strip from 18 to 75 inches wide.

Hot Strip Mills.

The new mill, of the hot strip continuous variety, represents one of the largest durable goods projects undertaken in the United States in the last twelve months.

This gigantic piece of machinery handles glowing hot slabs of steel weighing up to nearly 8,000 tons with as little fuss as a person would use in spreading soft butter on a piece of bread.

Onto a series of electrically powered rollers at one end of the mill the slab is laid as it comes from the furnace. It moves at once into a "scale breaker," where the scale is torn off by a stream of water under 1,000 pounds pressure.

Four Huge Rollers.

Then it goes into three roughing stands in succession. Each of these is made of four huge rollers, which exert terrific pressure, squeezing the slab to thinner shape.

Continuously moving forward, the slab then goes through another scale breaker and enters seven successive finishing stands, also made of four rollers each. Every time the slab goes through one of these stands it becomes thinner and longer, and it is because of that fact that watch-like precision is required.

At the far end of the mill "flying shears" trim the steel as neatly as a housewife cuts a piece of cloth, and after that the mill's job is practically done.

LIBERTY BOND OFFER TO EXTEND UNTIL MARCH 27

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced tonight that the treasury's recent offer to refund the fourth Liberty 4¼s by exchanging them for bonds carrying a lower interest rate would be kept open until March 27. At the same time he disclosed that a total of $1,140,000,000 had been turned in for the new issue carrying a 2⅞ per cent return.

A total of $1,875,000,000 of the fourth Liberties was called for redemption on April 15, together with $528,000,000 of 2½ per cent notes on March 15. The notes are being refunded with a new issue of 5 year paper, bearing interest at the rate of 1⅝ per cent.

This marks the third time a portion of the fourth Liberties has been retired in operations, which, on April 15, will leave only about $1,300,000,000 outstanding. They are callable on any interest date and interest is payable semi-annually, on April 15 and on Oct. 15. In view of developments, there was a strong possibility that the remainder would be called before the next deadline is reached.

Fight to Rule N.Y. Exchange Is Reported

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The fight over nomination to the presidency of the New York Stock exchange—the first such struggle within memory of the present members—flared up sharply again today with reports in well informed Wall street circles that Charles R. Gay, partner of the 107 year old firm of Whitehouse & Co., would be named by the nominating committee.

Gay, in commenting on reports, said: "In answer to the question whether I shall accept the nomination, if offered, I can only say that my decision must depend upon representations made by the committee and the advice of the many friends who have evidenced an interest in the present situation. "However, I have at no time sought the nomination."

Whitney Refuses to Speak.

At his home tonight, Richard Whitney, rounding out his fifth term as president of the exchange, said: "I will not comment one way or another on the reports."

The constitution of the stock exchange provides for three open meetings of the nominating committee at which candidates are suggested. The last of these meetings is to be held tomorrow and it is understood that the committee will reach a final decision shortly thereafter.

Nomination to the presidency of the exchange in the past has always virtually assured the nominee of election, but this year it is a moot point in Wall street circles whether the naming of Gay might not lead to a stiff open contest for the office, with the opposition headed by Whitney as an independent candidate.

Two Factions Seen.

Formal announcement of Gay as a candidate would without doubt split stock exchange circles into two warring factions.

On the one side would be the group, said by close exchange observers to be large, which favors a change to improve the public relations of the institution. This wing of opinion has held for some time, and more vociferously of late, that under the Whitney leadership relations with both the public and Washington have fared badly.

On the other side of the fence are a substantial number of strong Whitney adherents. They insist he has done a good job in steering the exchange through a trying change of readjustment under the New Deal.

Is Well Liked.

Fellow members say Gay, a genial and well liked Wall street figure, has never taken a speculative position in the stock market, nor has he ever taken part in pool operations, a fact which many of his advocates feel would enhance his prestige in the eyes of the SEC watchdog.

A product of the Brooklyn public schools, he received his later education at Brooklyn Polytechnic. After that came a business career which led to banking. He joined the New York Stock exchange in 1911.

TRADE LEADERS REPORT GAINS UP TO 30 PER CENT

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(AP)—Business gains in 1935 running up to 30 per cent over figures for the corresponding period last year were reported today by men representing a wide cross-section of American industry.

A summary of reports from the industrial leaders, following a series of recent statements from governmental and industrial and commercial sources similarly recounting trade increases, was made public by H. P. Kendall, chairman of the business advisory and planning council for the department of commerce.

The business council is composed of 52 executives. Its members include such figures as Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank of New York; Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company; Pierre S. du Pont, Chairman of E. I. de Nemours & Co., and Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation.

Kendall based his announcement on a poll of the members attending the council's meeting last week. His statement did not give the estimates of trade improvements of the members by name, but embodies a general summary of their views.

POLITICS JOINS TO ACCENTUATE DROP IN STEEL

Season Also Factor; Rate Now 48 Pct.

Political activities at Washington, as well as the usual seasonal trend, resulted in a decline of 2 points in steel mill operations last week to 48 per cent of production capacity, says the magazine Steel. In the Chicago area production was off 4 points at 51 per cent.

Uncertainties are again the restraining influence on the making of future steel commitments, says the journal, as two government reports on the industry's basing point system, one by the federal trade commission and the other by the NRA, have been issued. The former is opposed to any except f. o. b. mill price, while the latter urges group mill bases with each base having a fifty mile radius. Some compromise to consumers' advantage is expected to be worked out by June 16, the review says.

Conflicting Reports Check Demand.

In the meantime, the conflicting reports are expected to be a factor in holding back all except the most urgent steel demands.

Operating losses last week included 2 points to 72 per cent at Cleveland, 8 to 53 in New England, 6 to 88 at Detroit, and ½ to 28 in eastern Pennsylvania. Youngstown advanced 3 points to 58 per cent, while Buffalo remained at 38 per cent, Wheeling at 92, Pittsburgh at 38, and Birmingham at 55½ per cent.

A reduction in steel output is scheduled for Pittsburgh this week, as shipments and specifications for practically all finished steel products, except tin plate, are down in that district, the magazine says. While a few lake sheet mills are operating at capacity to complete quarterly contracts by March 31, the national average for sheet mills is off 5 points at 55 per cent for galvanized sheets and 75 per cent for full finished grades.

Automobile Output Increases.

Automobile makers last week made 97,000 cars, or 11,000 more than in the preceding week. Ford is attaining its March schedule of 160,000 units, but for April has scheduled only 152,000, the journal says. Any reduction by Ford is expected to be supplanted by increased operations by Chevrolet and others. The industry has set another million cars as its goal for the second quarter.

Overflow scrap supplies, especially from the Detroit district, have weakened the market with the magazine's scrap price composite dropping 33 cents to $10.71 a ton. Some scrap is being purchased for export as far inland as Pittsburgh, the review says. The iron and steel price composite is 1 cent lower at $32.38 a ton, while the finished steel index remains at $54 a ton.

EDWARD G. BUDD FINDS BRITISH TRADE BOOMING

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—[Special.]—Edward G. Budd, president of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, said today, following his return from Europe, that England was approaching a business boom and that conditions in other leading European countries were improving.

"General conditions in England are very favorable" he asserted. "The business people are enthusiastic. The Pressed Steel company, our English affiliate at Oxford, has just completed additional facilities which double its productive capacity. The expansion was undertaken to meet a large increase in the volume of business, but even now the added facilities seem hardly sufficient to meet the requirements."

Mr. Budd described conditions in Germans as "definitly improved in an industrial way," adding there was "more confidence than there has been in many years."

U. S. EXPECTED TO CALL LAST OF WAR BONDS

One Block of 4th Liberty Issue Outstanding.

New York, March 17.—(AP)—A call for redemption on June 15 of all the outstanding first Liberty bonds overshadowed other developments in the bond market last week.

This gigantic undertaking by the treasury, coming in the midst of another refinancing program involving refunding of the previously called fourth Liberty bonds, left the government with only one other issue of bonds that were put out to help defray this country's participation in the world war. This is a block of the fourth issue, which may be redeemed on Oct. 15 if a call for such a program is issued by April 15.

Expect Further Redemptions.

The continuance of a money market with ample funds for the success of such an undertaking gave rise to the belief in investment quarters that such a course will be taken by the treasury.

Principal developments during the week effecting corporation bonds was the transmission of President Roosevelt's message to congress dealing with public utility holding companies. Although such action had long been forecast, the bond market apparently was unprepared for the vigorous drive which the President indicated the government will launch and the obligations of a number of companies vitally affected were acutely depressed before sufficient support could be mustered to check the decline.

Prime Issues Resist Pressure.

High grade bonds held their own with the customary resistance shown by most all types of better rated securities, although a number of the first grade railroad liens were dragged down a trifle along with the lower priced carrier issues when the market was maneuvered into a downward spiral.

Although new state and municipal offering scheduled for this week amount to only a little more than $16,600,000, investment circles profess the belief that this division of the bond market will branch out in a flourishing business before long, due to the scarcity of high grade bonds which can be secured at attractive yields. The state of Tennessee, with an issue of $3,200,000 notes on Tuesday, needs the list of new financing scheduled for this week.

Liggett & Myers.

Investors' Guide: Would like information on Liggett & Myers preferred and common.—S. W.

Answer: After three years of declining profits earnings of this producer of cigarets [Chesterfield, Fatima, Piedmont], smoking tobacco [Granger and Velvet], plug tobaccos, and cigars jumped 20 per cent in 1934 over 1933.

This rise was in the face of higher tobacco costs, taxes, and labor expense. The improvement was due to raising of the wholesale price of cigarets from $5.50 a thousand, which became effective Feb. 11, 1933, to $6.10 a thousand [on Jan. 9, 1934], and a sharp increase in unit sales.

Total cigaret consumption in 1932 fell 19 per cent under 1931's reduced total. The "big four," producers of Lucky Strikes, Chesterfields, Camels, and Old Gold, were faced with the competition of "roll your own" cigarets and 10 cent packaged cigarets. In 1933 the companies slashed prices at the expense of profits to hold their business. Apparently the crisis was passed in 1933, as in 1934 the wholesale price of cigarets was raised, although it is still under the 1931 level.

Net income in 1934 was $20,087,000, or $5.92 per common share, against net of $16,731,000, or $4.84 per common share, for 1933. Net income for 1932 was $23,075,000, against $23,121,000 for 1931 and $24,002,000 for 1930.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong. The company had cash and government and municipal bonds alone sufficient to pay off all liabilities, current and funded, and still have some left over for the preferred stock, even though inventories were 40 per cent greater than the year before.

Funded debt totals $27,674,000. Capitalization consists of $22,514,000 preferred stock and 3,136,929 shares of $25 par common and common B stock. The B common is the same as the common, except that it has no voting power.

The common stocks pay regular dividends of $1 a quarter. An extra of $1 a share was paid March 1, 1935, the same as the year before. All classes of stock are high grade.

Sherway.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly inform me as to what you can produce on the bonds known as the Sherway?—G. F. L.

Answer: The following are excerpts from a communication from the bondholders' protective committee:

"These bonds were secured by a leasehold. They were distributed by the former Chicago Trust company.

"The ground lease was terminated, which removed the security underlying these bonds. They consequently became worthless."

GLOOM RULES WALL STREET; STOCKS RECEDE

Varied Political Events Disturb Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 17.—Judged by the day to day performance of the stock market, speculative Wall street is right now in about the gloomiest frame of mind it has been since the advent of the New Deal scheme of existence.

Among the factors responsible for the dark picture in the financial district are the following: The administration's crusade against power "holding companies." The evident suspension of inflationary activities while the $2,000,000,000 Liberty loan bond issue, called last week, is being refunded. The effects on public spending, present and prospective, by the big drop in government emergency expenditures—the total for the last three months was $855,000,000 less than it was for the corresponding period a year ago. The continued failure of congress to approve the President's public works program.

Averages Drop Sharply.

Selling bore down the stock list steadily in every session of the week but one. The "averages," as guaged by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S index on fifty representative issues, lost nearly $3 on the week, winding up last night at 79.13, or less than a half point above their low for the year of 78.74.

Such statistical news as the week brought forth was neither particularly harmful nor helpful. Two refunding issues were floated, with a considerable celebration, but the output added mittedly is likely to be moderate for a while. Corporations rather are considering the greater immediate benefits of substituting bank loans for bonds.

Car Loadings Down.

Freight car loadings were down slightly on the week. Cotton consumed in February was reported lower Foreign trade figures were released for last month, showing a drop in quantity of goods shipped abroad The worst break in cotton in several years [the market falling nearly 2 cents a pound] at midweek was also a hurt to speculative sentiment generally.

Comment around the commission houses shows that the trading fraternity is banking little hope on any spring revival in business such as is usually looked for along about this time of year.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

Our most active season has begun. Business is good.

We have an opening for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west. Previous experience an advantage but not essential. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission weekly in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege, if necessary, while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn $30 per week and upward consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only. Can also use a few saleswomen.
STRAUS & SCHRAM.
Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Zuber.
838 W. 63d-st. 3320 Lincoln-av.

Miscellaneous.

SALESMEN AND MEN ABLE TO learn a simplified method of introducing a major specialty of unique character:

If you have to make money now and are prepared to stop waiting for your former business, trade or profession to perform a miracle in your behalf, you may be the man we can use. This is not a part-time or seasonal job, but requires a full-time effort. If you are sufficiently responsible and adaptable to be accepted for one of these positions, we will immediately train you in a method of work that turns present conditions into a practical advantage. When we first discovered and began to teach this method of work, even our most experienced men balled it with enthusiasm and applied it to step-up their earnings. The result was that last year was by far our biggest year and our men earned more than ever before.

To learn this simple and very effectual method requires two days' intensive study and practice (at no cost to you) and you will receive special training later whenever necessary in order to help you increase your moderate income. PROVIDED you can show that you are a diligent and conscientious worker. You must also be able to supply good character references if you are to handle our money, as we require no deposit or investment.

Throughout the civilized world, extraordinary success has attended the introduction of this electrical invention. In America, where the first model unit of this invention was introduced in 1924, a powerful, successful organization has been developed, giving profitable employment to thousands of men from coast to coast. We will now take on a few more in the Chicago area, and special officials of Electrolux, Inc. (not refrigeration) are here for that purpose. The past 12 months constitutes the biggest year we ever had, and this was due greatly to our new visual method of presentation.

You do not have to be a genius or "star" to master this method—more important is the WILLINGNESS to adhere to it. For instance, some men, upon seeing our product, exclaim, "Boy, what a sales talk I could write around that," whereas we prefer men who will forget about "sales talks" and simply get busy on the method we have already tested and found to be amazingly successful.

If you feel qualified to do this and put in a good 50 hours a week, we will show you our product and complete selling plan, commission, earnings, market, facilities provided, etc.

Whether you have been earning $25.00 a week or $25.00 a day, whether you were formerly a teacher, a mechanic, salesman, merchant, a plasterer, manufacturer or a broker, if you qualify for this work we will employ you at once in a permanent position. For personal interview with manager apply at Morrison Hotel, Monday morning, March 18, from 10 to 12 a. m., or from 1 to 3 p. m. Look for name "Electrolux" on bulletin board in lobby.

The number of men we can take on is limited. Do not apply at any other hours or any other day.

WHITE COLLAR MEN — ENGINEERS, draftsmen, accountants, business men, clerks—men of work but wishing to make a permanent, profitable connection without investment, will pay strict heed to this invitation. I know your position. I was a civil engineer and found my occupation gone. I knew nothing about electrical service or units, but about 2½ years ago I connected with this company, and now hold a managerial position. What I was taught, I will pass on to you if you are a man of character and are willing to work consistently. I can use men all along the North Shore and Cook and Lake counties, not over 46 years old.

If you are sincerely seeking a steady and growing income in an honorable and rapidly expanding business, I assure you that the same commissions I receive after 2½ years' work will be yours to start with. I will interview you if you will come not a moment after 2 p. m. today, Monday, March 18—Room 922 Rogers Park Hotel, 6907 Sheridan road. Be prepared to give me time enough to go into details, and if we get together I will have you working without delay. Ask for Mr. Goble.
